Utility tax idea revived

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

The possibility that Granite City could revive its plans for a utility tax on industries to help finance the proposed 19th Street overpass was expressed yesterday by Mayor Paul Schuler.

He said he views such a tax as the most sensible way to raise needed funds for the overpass, and may urge its passage unless other industries follow the lead set by Granite City Steel, which is making available up to $1.7 million to help finance the overpass.

"I think we still have to consider the alternative of an energy-saving tax or a utility tax. Granite City Steel has been most generous and, if such a tax has to be imposed, they would, of course, receive $1.7 million in credit toward the tax."

"Unfortunately, other industries have not been quite as generous as Granite City Steel. We would, of course, welcome their voluntary participation," the mayor said.

Last week's bid received from Millstone Construction Co. of $5,942,363 to build the two-lane overpass was welcomed by Schuler as close enough to the engineers' estimates to be acceptable to the state.

"It's within five percent and I think it is a good bid, but we still have to find almost another half million dollars," Schuler said.

Best available figures indicate the city has $5,548,200, which is $394,163 short of the amount needed.

"I don't see how we can squeeze $400,000 out of the city's budget. If we can, we will. For instance, we could try to take some monies out of motor fuel tax, if the aldermen so choose, but I still think we will have to seek other funding," the mayor commented.

He explained that Granite City Steel's $1.7 million is a firm offer. "Originally, we felt we needed $1.3 million; but since that time, the engineers' estimate went up about $400,000 and they said they would go up to $1.7 million. We pledged that if we had to initiate a utility tax, they would receive credit against the

Suspects held in torture case

Madison County sheriff's deputies say they believe they are close to solving a home invasion in which a local man was tortured in his home one week ago. Two men are in custody in connection with that investigation.

They said the home of Phil Morrison of the 4800 block of Maryville Road had been broken into three times in about one week.

In the latest incident Thursday, Jan. 24, the victim suffered three broken fingers when two men tortured him, attempting to find out if he kept money in the house.

Morrison said he was awakened by noises in the house and, when he investigated, he was struck on the head with something.

When he awoke, he saw two men in the house who demanded to know where he kept his money, he told deputies. When he said he had none, the intruders twisted his fingers severely.

They tore the phone from the wall and left with a shotgun, his wallet and $4 cash, deputies were told.

Flu closes Sacred Heart-St. Joseph

One school in the Quad-City area did not open its doors this morning for classes due to an unusually high absenteeism rate which is believed caused by an outbreak of influenza. The combined schools of Sacred Heart-St. Joseph did not open for classes today and will also be closed Friday, Feb. 1.

A spokesman for the school at 2600 Jorden Ave. reported 52 pupils and three teachers absent on Tuesday. As of Wednesday, those figures rose to 72

Kennedy plans big push for delegates in this area

Struggling in national polls and funneling most of its diminishing finances into Maine and New Hampshire, the Kennedy presidential campaign nevertheless is preparing for a major effort in Illinois and this region.

Headquarters are to be set up in the 2000 block of State Street, the Press-Record was told yesterday afternoon by Leonard Lucas, a Massachusetts lawyer who is here to coordinate Senator Edward "Ted" Kennedy's campaign in the 23rd Congressional District.

The Democratic primary balloting will take place March 18.

Traveling in Madison County with Miles McCall and in close contact with Illinois Kennedy coordinator Gerard Doherty in Chicago, Lucas is seeking to rally pro-Kennedy voters while acknowledging that the campaign will not be easy to win.

Many party leaders at one time were ready to announce for Sen. Kennedy but instead have come out for the renomination and reelection of President Jimmy Carter. Factors cited in the slippage include the time needed to switch from "draft Kennedy" activities to the formal campaign structure in the fall of 1979, and citizens' backing of the president during the continuing Iran hostage crisis.

Lucas said he is hearing praise for Kennedy's willingness to take a stand on controversial issues, including Monday's endorsement of gasoline rationing and wage-price controls. He sees the issue as leadership, despite Pres. Carter's handling of recent Middle East issues.

Labeling present campaign fund problems as mainly involving "cash flow," Lucas said the public is in-

Diverse emergency staff

St. Elizabeth Medical Center has added four new emergency room physicians to the staff. Doctors Stephen C. Spurgeon, Stephen B. Lillard, Sanford J. Greenberg and Sara E. Allgood, who were previously with Deaconess Hospital in St. Louis, have joined the St. Elizabeth Emergency Department.

"The new emergency room staff will add stability and a more diverse type of patient care to the emergency department," Steve Hunter, administrative assistant for SEMC, said this week. "Their various types of training and experience will allow St. Elizabeth to provide a higher quality of health care to its emergency patients."

Stephen C. Spurgeon, M.D., director of the Emergency Department, is a graduate of the Indiana University School of Medicine and received medical training at Indiana University Medical Center.

Dr. Spurgeon is the chairman of Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) Emergency Cardiac Care Committee of the St. Louis Heart Association. He is a specialist in emergency medicine and general surgery.

He served as a medical officer in the U.S. Navy for two years and for four years was director of the Emergency Department at Deaconess Hospital, where he was an instructor of cardiac

Reckless homicide verdict

A coroner's jury in Granite City Monday afternoon ruled that the deaths of a father and his two children in a New Year's Eve head-on collision on State Aid Route 35 were the result of reckless homicide.

The coroner's jury failed to reach a verdict into the cause of death of a LeMay, Mo., couple fatally injured in a separate accident on Interstate 70 east of Route 111 Jan. 9.

In both collisions, other drivers who allegedly had been drinking were arrested.

The victims of the first head-on crash were Larry D. Lehman, 42, and his daughters, Stacy, 1½, and Nicole, 5. Mrs. Beverly Lehman, 26, was injured in the accident but is recuperating.

Arlin W. Davis, 50, of Holiday Mobile Home Park, has been charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, violating the terms of a restricted driver's permit and three counts of reckless homicide in connection with that case.

Davis was not present at the inquest and authorities said he remains a patient at the Scott Air Force Base Hospital, recuperating from injuries he received in the accident.

Two witnesses spoke during the inquest, which was conducted at Mercer Mortuary by Madison County Deputy Coroner Dick Mizell.

State Trooper Richard Crnkovich testified that he handled the accident and evidence indicated that Davis' westbound station wagon crossed the center line and collided head-on with the auto driven by Mr. Lehman.

All of those involved in the accident had to be removed from the wreckage by rescue crews, Crnkovich said.

He reported he went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center after the accident to talk to Davis and said Davis was "sort of coherent and not coherent. He knew he had hit something and he wanted to know what he hit," the trooper recalled.

Crnkovich alleged Davis refused to sign a consent form to have blood taken to determine the alcohol content. However, medical center personnel already had taken blood for analysis as part of the pre-admission procedure, and with the help of Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron, a court order was obtained for that blood sample.

Crnkovich said the blood had already been taken by courier to a Missouri laboratory and officials were able to retrieve it legally. The sample then was flown to Chicago, where it was analyzed by a crime laboratory and results showed "a very high amount of alcoholic content in the blood," according to the trooper.

Byron, Assistant State's Attorney Keith Jensen, Crnkovich and others obtained a statement from Davis as to his whereabouts earlier on the day of the accident and then launched a one-week investigation into the validity of his statement, Crnkovich testified.

Davis said he had been taking valium

Register voters at 3 locations

Only 19 days remain in which new residents of the Quad-City area, or those who have moved recently or allowed their pink voter registration cards to expire, may register for the March 3 primary election.

To assist residents in registering, County Clerk Evelyn Bowles has arranged three special registration centers for tomorrow and Saturday.

Deputy clerks will be at Schmuck's Food Store in Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. to complete registrations.

On Saturday, voters may register between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. at the P & L Quick Shop in Mitchell or between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the Solo Bank Grocery in Venice.

Registration also may be completed weekdays at the office of Granite City Clerk Robert W. Stevens in city hall, and most precinct committeemen have been deputized to register voters.

Seminar on farm-grown fuel sources

A seminar on "Energy From Agriculture" and "Fuel for Agriculture" will be held March 5 at 9:30 a.m. at the Illinois Union in Urbana. The Illinois Union is on the University of Illinois campus.

The conference will take an in-depth look at agriculture's ability to produce energy. Speakers from the U. of I., from other educational institutions and agencies, and from industry will discuss farm sources of ethyl alcohol.

They will talk about production systems that can be used on the farm, and will discuss uses of both the product and the byproduct. Other speakers will explore the economics of producing alcohol from farm products. They also will examine the implications that such production might have on society.

Exploration by Shell

Shell Oil Company said Monday an earnings increase of $312 million in 1979 was a major factor in the company's regularly planned capital and exploration spending of $2.4 billion for the year, and a larger investment program of $2.7 billion planned for 1980.

Shell President John F. Bookout reported 1979 earnings, subject to audit, were $1,126,000,000 or $7.32 per share, a 38 percent increase over the $814 million, or $5.45 per share, in 1978. The $2.4 billion in regular 1979 capital and exploration spending was a company record, and was about $300 million more than the $2.1 billion in 1978. Of the $2.4 billion, $1.7 billion went for energy exploration and development.

In addition, 1979 capital expenditures included $3.6 billion for acquisition of Belridge Oil Company, a California company. Primarily engaged in production of crude, oil and natural gas.

Under the terms of this merger agreement, eligible former Belridge shareholders can purchase up to 44 percent of the oil and gas properties Shell acquired from Belridge. This acquisition significantly increased Shell's oil and gas reserves.

"In our spending emphasis will continue to be on oil, natural gas and other energy projects," Bookout said, pointing out that again in 1980, nearly three-quarters of the spending, or $1.9 billion — is planned for exploration and development of energy resources primarily in the United States.

Reviewing results of Shell's spending program, Bookout said the company added total hydrocarbon reserves — domestic and foreign — equal to 88 percent of what it produced during the year, excluding Belridge. During 1979, Shell added 255 million barrels of crude oil, equivalent to the company's proven domestic reserves — or 87 percent of its 1979 domestic production — thus maintaining a Shell's leadership role among the eight largest oil companies, and the industry as a whole, in replacement of domestic production over the past eight years.

Also in 1979, Bookout said, Shell discovered or participated in the discovery of 40 new domestic oil and gas fields and seven new oil fields overseas.

The company also drilled or participated in the drilling of 338 domestic wells and 96 wells overseas.

Shell and its partners were successful bidders on 154,000 acres at six offshore lease sales, although 42,000 acres in the Beaufort Sea of Alaska sale are tied up in suits. Shell's share of total bonuses at the six sales was $380 million.

Bookout said most of Shell's earnings growth came from the oil and gas exploration and production segment of the business, which contributed $747 million, as compared to $517 million in 1978; and from chemical products, with $173 million, compared to $100 million in 1978.

Income from oil products, which includes refining and marketing, was $255 million in 1979, little changed from the $250 million in 1978.

Earnings from total petroleum operations, which include oil and gas exploration and production and oil products, were equivalent to 4.1 cents per gallon sold on a total volume of 24.4 billion gallons of refined produced and natural gas (converted to liquid equivalent).

Alarms work —if turned on

By MICK STRANGE
of the Press-Record

Although overall crime statistics for major crimes are up 9.3 percent in Madison for 1979 over the year 1978, a study of the crime statistics is revealing.

Burglaries increased from 105 in 1978 to 130 in 1979. A check of the 19 business burglaries reveals that 10 of the businesses had burglar alarms but they were not on at the time of the burglaries.

Further study indicates that six of the businesses did not have burglar alarms.

In all four of the burglaries that occurred in business establishments that had their burglar alarms on, the individuals committing the burglaries were caught by police.

There were seven burglaries at the new middle school, 15 apartment burglaries and 12 garage burglaries.

Of the seven burglaries in warehouses, at the two that had alarms on, the burglars were caught, police records indicate; two warehouses had alarms that were not on and three had no alarms.

Police records show that of the 34 house burglaries, there was no force entry at six homes, six were vacant houses and four had alarms that were not turned on.

Of the three armed robberies, two were cleared by arrest and one is yet unsolved.

In the entire year there were only three street robberies, two purse snatchings and one home invasion, according to police records.

Other increases in major crimes with 1979 figures are: criminal homicide 0-2, up 2; forcible rape, 2-3 up 1; robberies 6-7, up 1; and thefts 141-164, up 23.

Marked decreases occurred, with 1978 figures first followed by 1979, in assault and battery, 87-75, down 12, and auto thefts, 37-32, down five.

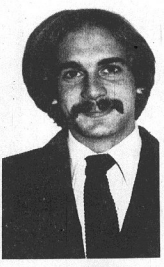

It was noted by Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick that the theft increase was also due to thefts from the construction site at the new middle school.

Fine money increased by $1,601, with $20,457 being collected in 1979 compared to $19,426 in 1978.

Traffic arrests in 1979 numbered 500, down 190 down from the 690 in 1978, while other arrests increased by 146, from 314 to 460.

Alarm calls increased by 1,206 in 1979 with a 2,305 total compared to 1,099 in 1978.

Total reported radio, telephone and log entries increased 19,060 for a total of 9,518 in 1979 compared to 30,458 in 1978.

Taxi driver charged with slashing tire

Ricky L. Householder, 29, of 1605 Kirkpatrick Homes, has been charged with criminal damage to property in connection with the slashing of a tire on the car of Richard Stelzer, 30, Holiday Mobile Home Park, parked at the rear of 2821 Edwards St., at 12:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Stelzer said he was visiting a friend and Householder allegedly telephoned him and said he was on his way over. Sensing that the call had not been meant in a friendly way, Stelzer let his dogs out.

A few minutes later, he saw his dogs chasing a man east on Edwards Street to the end, where the man got into the driver's seat of a taxicab and drove away.

Stelzer then discovered that a tire on his car had been slashed or punctured. Officers checked at the taxicab office and arrested Householder. He was released on $35 cash bond.

PROGRAM FOR HEART ATTACK VICTIMS

Trimming of any icy Nameoki trees unlikely

Residents of Nameoki Township will probably be unable to have their trees trimmed if there are ice storms this winter because there is not enough money in the budget, Frank Melhick, highway commissioner, said at Monday night's Town Board meeting.

Melhick told Helen Hawkins, precinct 5 committeeman, that the highway department "didn't have money in the budget to contract a tree trimming company and we are not a tree trimming company. Normally we cut the whole thing down."

She asked Melhick if dead tree limbs could be cut down after a major ice storm because she felt the township could be sued if a limb caused any personal injury. She said commissioners in other townships trim trees.

Melhick asked Mrs. Hawkins who those highway commissioners are. She then told Melhick she didn't wish to devolve the names because she was speaking in confidence with them.

Melhick responded, "I know what they (the other highway commissioners) do. They cut the whole tree down."

He said he would be unable to trim trees under the current budget.

On another topic, the board heard from township resident Susan Gasparovic on the formation of the Alpha Center for Women—a place to provide shelter and instruction for single women who are pregnant.

She said the organization is currently looking to purchase a home in downtown Granite City for its base of operations. She said the center will be patterned after a similar center in Orlando, Fla., which is currently serving 30 women.

Mrs. Gasparovic said a benefit dance will be held for the center at 8:30 p.m. March 8 at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Granite City. Cost of the benefit is $15 per couple.

In other action: "The board announced that a public meeting on the use of $60,000 in federal revenue sharing money will be held at the township hall at 7 p.m. Feb. 11. The meeting will be held to receive input from members of the community."

Approved a letter written by Harold Davis, township supervisor, to Rep. Everett Steele, R-Glen Carbon, to thank him for sponsoring a bill limiting railroads from blocking crossings.

Explorer candy sale on Sunday

Wind, snow and sleet do not stop the U.S. Postal Service nor does the weather stop Explorer Post 10-4's annual candy sale.

The Explorers will be selling a candy milk chocolate bar Sunday afternoon, with a coupon for a Wendy's hamburger on it. Proceeds from the candy sale will be used to help finance the Explorers' annual trip in late August.

Madison Police Officer William Weidner is in charge of the sale and will be assisted by other members of the department and the Explorers.

Jason Kieffer is president of Explorer Post 10-4.

Plans for family sleigh riding events to be held on Sunday, Feb. 3 and on Feb. 24, at Monks Mounds are being announced by the officers of Parents Without Partners Eastside Chapter 91.

Other programs announced include the general meeting set for Monday, Feb. 4, at the VFW in Collinsville, with Komandina as guest speaker. He has selected income tax as his topic for the evening.

A family affair will be an evening at Happy Joe's starting at 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10.

On Feb. 18 members are to meet in the home of Ella Mae Watts at 7 p.m. for the newsletter printing and mailing to be followed by a discussion session on "Being Single" at 8:30 p.m. Moderator will be Linda Leady, it was noted.

An adult dance at Panorama Lanes is scheduled for Feb. 22, officers reported.

Dr. Han sues Public Aid to keep records private

Dr. Thwan H. Han, a psychiatrist who practices in Granite City, filed suit Monday against the Illinois Department of Public Aid (IPA) to block them from seeing his files on former patients, without written authorization from the patients.

The suit, filed in Madison County Circuit Court, also asks the court to enjoin IPA from forcing him to obtain written authorizations from former patients, from disqualifying him as a vendor entitled to public aid payments, and from forcing him to repay money IPA has paid him.

Dr. Han contends the state already has audited his files on all active patients from July 1975 to December 1976, after he obtained written authorizations from the patients, as required by law.

Now, according to the suit, the state wants to audit his files on patients treated between January 1974 and November 1978. Han contends these files are inactive and the patients would be difficult to locate for their authorizations.

The state comptroller's office has begun administrative proceedings to determine if Dr. Han should be disqualified as a vendor entitled to state aid payments and if repayment of the money he has received from IPA should be sought, according to the suit.

$250 FIRE DAMAGE
An electrical short-circuit in an electric motor started a fire which caused about $250 damage to the home of Cheryl Longo and Joyce Church, 2343 E. 24th St., at 4:10 a.m. Tuesday. The house is owned by Mel Circulum. Granite City firemen were on the scene 30 minutes.

He said his campaign is the fastest growing in the state, and voiced pride in convention delegate candidates who are "ordinary people, not politicians."

Windshield is broken—again

Two young men walked to the auto of Federico Foschiatti, of E. 25th St., on the parking lot of Al's Auto Parts, 2517 Nameoki Road, at 9:55 p.m. Wednesday and smashed the windshield with something, witnesses told police.

It is the second time in three days the windshield has been broken.

On Sunday night, Foschiatti was driving on Nameoki Road near the same location when two men ran into the road and threw beer bottles at his car, breaking the windshield, denting the hood and pulling a chrome strip from the car.

Wife of candidate George Bush visits

The campaign of Republican presidential hopeful George Bush reached Madison County yesterday as Mr. Barbara Bush, addressed a small crowd at the Holiday Inn at Collinsville on behalf of her husband.

"I was brought up with the idea that you want to have the two best men run for public office. I don't think they've (Democrats) got a best man," Mrs. Bush told about 40 GOP supporters in the audience.

She said she thought her husband was the best man for the job and is qualified, having been a congressman, Republican national chairman, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, special envoy to China and director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Mrs. Bush had a busy day yesterday, appearing with her husband before about 450 persons at a breakfast in Champaign and then addressing about 100 women herself in Decatur. Solo talks to smaller groups in Mount Vernon and Collinsville followed.

At Decatur, she said her husband is behind in the polls.

Gasohol said to require subsidy

Amoco Oil Company, which has been test-marketing gasohol in four Midwest markets since last summer, has found that "without a subsidy, gasohol would not be viable at present," a company marketing executive said this week.

The company's gasohol sales in Ottumwa, Iowa, and Fremont, Neb., where gasohol is exempt from all or most of the state motor fuel tax — are much more encouraging than in Decatur, Ill., and Madison, Wis., where the product receives no state tax subsidies, said Joe Gibbs.

Amoco's marketing conference.

In all states, he added, gasohol is exempt from the federal motor fuel tax.

Without the tax subsidies, Gibbs said, gasohol is a blend of 90 percent unleaded gasoline and 10 percent ethanol — would cost about nine cents a gallon more than regular unleaded gasoline.

To help overcome these price differences, and the energy imbalance associated with existing ethanol production facilities, Gibbs said the alcohol industry will have to either gain a breakthrough in technology or be able to use coal or other fuel sources in the distillation process.

"Without one or the other of these alternatives — or perhaps a combination of the two — we will be inefficiently using scarce petroleum to make the ethanol, and in the long run we won't have a viable business," Gibbs said.

"The energy cost of gasohol will, in the long run, be the deciding factor."

"At present, it takes about 2.2 times as much energy to raise the corn and produce the alcohol as you get out of it."

Advanced technology could reduce that energy amount to 1.5 times the output, he said, and use of coal or other non-petroleum fuels could reduce the petroleum energy used to make alcohol to 30 percent of the output.

"In this case," he pointed out, "alcohol would have a favorable balance in relation to the petroleum used for alcohol production, and might well be justified as a means of stretching available gasoline supplies.

"Motorists are expressing a strong interest in the product that likely will intensify with continuing crude oil shortages."

"At the national level, motorists' awareness of gasohol has gone from 53 percent in April 1978 to 90 percent in July 1979."

According to Amoco's research, 80 to 88 percent of the users of gasohol in Ottumwa felt that — for miles per gallon, starting ease, power, engine cleanliness and overall quality — gasohol was as good as or better than gasoline.

In fact, non-users of gasohol were hard-pressed to give reasons for not trying gasohol."

Gibbs was strongly critical, however, of proposals to mandate gasohol usage.

Noting that the government already has substantial subsidies and loan guarantees for alcohol producers, Gibbs said that mandating gasohol's use "is no way to increase freedom of choice to the consumer."

"Rather, it is a good way to force refiners into misallocating resources."

The Amoco executive said he believes "the free market approach is greatly superior to either bureaucratic or legislative compulsion. Our program for informing consumers, for delivering a quality product, and for evaluating consumers' reactions is the right way."

"If gasohol is here to stay, time and the consumer will tell us."

Among those saddened by the death Monday in California of 86-year-old comedian Jimmy Durante is Steve Konkovich of Granite City.

He said Tuesday, "I met Jimmy at the Hollywood Canteen during World War II and he was one heck of a man. I'm sorry to see him go, but he left a lot of himself and gave laughter to millions."

A star of vaudeville, night clubs, movies and television, Durante in 1970 wrote Konkovich to thank him for a letter, picture and news clipping. Durante said, "I got a kick out of your letter," and added, "I appreciate your thoughtfulness."

Will momentum build for Bush, Carter? Illinois to be pivotal

Impanel new grand jury

By ROBERT ESTILL

Press-Record

Washington Bureau
The Iowa precinct caucuses demonstrated that, in the world of politics, the surreal often becomes real. The caucuses showed once again that political events take on added meaning in direct proportion to the attention given them by politicians and pundits. Such attention frequently is short-lived and overtaken by other events.

In terms of voting strength at the Republican and Democratic national conventions, the Iowa caucuses carried little weight.

What the Iowa Democrats did in their caucuses was select delegates to county conventions, who will select delegates to the state convention, who will choose delegates to the national convention.

The 59 Iowa Democratic delegates ultimately chosen will be apportioned to represent Carter's two-to-one victory over Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., in the precinct caucuses.

The Iowa Republicans did even less. They did not elect a single delegate. They simply conducted a non-binding straw poll of presidential preferences.

They will not elect their 37 delegates until the state convention this spring.

Iowa's delegate strength pales when compared with Illinois, which will send the third largest delegation (102 votes) to the GOP convention in Detroit in July and the fourth largest delegation (179 votes) to the Democratic gathering in August in New York City.

That is not to say that the Iowa caucuses did not carry heavy political significance. They can have a tremendous psychological effect on the early primaries.

Iowa caucuses were of little importance to anybody except a few Iowans until 1976, when Carter's victory there propelled him from comparative obscurity to national attention.

The national media attention focused on Iowa this year made it a test of whether Pres. Carter could still deliver the votes and whether Ronald Reagan could maintain his above-the-battle stance. The answer to the first was a decisive "yes" and the second was an equally clear "no."

The caucus results make it a survival test for Sen. Kennedy to win impressively in the New England backyard in New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary Feb. 26; in the March 4 primaries in his home state and Vermont; and in the Maine municipal caucuses, Feb. 10.

Reagan, stunned by George Bush's Iowa victory, will have to join the pack. And a rigorous campaign carries the risk of making Reagan's age (he will be 69 on Feb. 6) even more of an issue than it has been.

But a first-round loss, while damaging, does not necessarily assign either Kennedy or Reagan to the political bonfire.

Kennedy has been hurt by his own fumbling and by public support for Carter's handling of the situations in Iran and Afghanistan that have diverted attention from domestic problems.

But if Kennedy recoups in New England, he can withstand losses in the next round of primaries—March 11 in Alabama and Florida and March 16 in Puerto Rico.

With the experience of 1976 as a guide, Reagan still has time. Four years ago, he lost all of the early primaries—including those in New England—but bounced back in North Carolina and nearly won the nomination from incumbent, although non-elected, President Gerald Ford.

The Bush victory in Iowa does mean that more attention will be focused on Reagan's showing in the New England primaries, and he needs a victory to regain momentum.

If both Reagan and Kennedy survive the first round of primaries, the key test for all of the GOP and Democratic presidential hopefuls will come in Illinois' March 18 primary, the seventh in a succession of 35 primaries.

Illinois' primary is the first in a large, Midwestern, industrial but diversified state with a big block of delegates.

For the two main Democratic protagonists, it is the first primary test outside of Kennedy's Northeast and Carter's South. Illinois is Reagan's birthplace (Tampico), the homestate of longshot aspirants Rep. Philip Crane and John Anderson, and the state that provided the bride of Sen. Howard Baker (the former Joy Dirksen, daughter of the late Sen. Everett Dirksen).

Bush and Connally also have their following in the "Prairie State." Their homestate will be do-or-die turf for Crane and Anderson. Neither fared well in Iowa—Crane with 7 percent and Anderson with 4 percent—but they did not make much of an effort. Assuming they survive as candidates until March 18, both Crane and Anderson will have to run well in Illinois if they are not to continue to be dismissed as "also-rans."

At this point, it is premature to count anyone out. The first of 35 primaries has yet to be held. If Kennedy and Reagan fall by the wayside, their demise undoubtedly will be traced back to Iowa. But it usually takes more than one fumble to lose a ballgame.

Russell Lockridge of Granite City was selected as foreman of a new grand jury impaneled Monday by Chief Criminal Judge Victor J. Mosele in Madison County Circuit Court at Edwardsville.

The new grand jury, which is to serve for four months, was sworn in by Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard V. "Butch" Portell. Quad-City area residents on the grand jury are Elsie Byrd, Dorothy Dix, Gerald Frost, Robert L. Austin, Linda Beck and Donna Swigert, all of Granite City, and Howard Hale of Pontoon Beach.

State payroll $38 million in this county

The paychecks of State of Illinois employees pumped $3.6 billion back into the Illinois economy and tax base during 1979, Comptroller Roland W. Burris reported this week, including $38,595,783 to 3,876 employees in Madison County.

Comptroller Burris said 159,960 people received state paychecks during the last calendar year and their salaries totaled $1,641,825,638. The comptroller commented:

"Unfortunately, some people tend to look upon the state payroll as a drain of their tax dollars, when in fact these dollars go directly back into the state's economy for things like food, clothing and housing. At the same time, these employees are performing a vast range of state services for the taxpaying public.

"Since state employees also pay taxes, that tax dollar is further recycled back into the state treasury from which state employees are paid in the first place, and for local taxes as well.

"So the state payroll is really a major factor in Illinois' economy and in the tax base of the state and a great many communities."

While the regular State payroll normally ranges between 115,000 and 118,000 full-time employees, part-time workers such as those in state institutions, student workers in universities, and seasonal workers in many state agencies increased the year's total to 159,960 employees.

Mail carriers need access through snow

Rural mail carriers expect to deal with more than their share of snow and sleet and freezing rain, but Postmaster Jack D. Wilkins today reminded customers in the Quad-Cities that carriers will need some assistance during winter months.

Rural (and highway contract route) carriers will make every reasonable effort to serve as many customers as possible during severe winter weather, but Wilkins said carriers are not expected to leave their vehicles and provide service on foot when roads, entire blocks, or other large portions of their routes are impassable.

"Rural and contract carriers are expected to leave their vehicles to serve temporarily blocked individual boxes where there is no risk of personal injury or unusual physical exertion," Wilkins said, "but not when access to several mailboxes along a continuous segment of a route is blocked."

Postmaster Wilkins said local offices keep in close contact with traffic and weather advisories to determine if delivery should be suspended on a particular day, and with highway department officials to make sure public roads are passable and in good repair.

"We need everyone's cooperation in keeping approaches to boxes clear of snow and any other obstructions," Wilkins said, "so we can avoid cutting back on mail delivery even temporarily."

Three injured as cars crash

Three persons were injured as three cars collided at McCambridge Avenue (Route 203) and Sixth Street, Madison, at 4:35 p.m. Monday.

David Ford, 31, of Cahokia was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center with lacerations to the chin and left knee, plus abrasions to the abdomen.

Ford, the driver of one of the vehicles, was issued traffic citations for alleged driving under the influence of alcohol, careless driving and disobeying a traffic signal.

Mrs. Peggy Hodge, 38, of 1941 Rhodes St., Madison, was treated and released at SEMC. She suffered pain in the chest. Mrs. Hodge was the driver of one of the vehicles.

Barbara Hodge, 17, a passenger in her mother's car, was admitted to SEMC for observation with pain in her lower back and neck.

The driver of the third vehicle, Gerald J. Bergerbrader, 42, of 2812 Buxton Ave., escaped apparent injury.

The wreck caused traffic to be re-routed for over 30 minutes as members of the Madison Volunteer Fire Department Rescue Squad worked to free Miss Hodge, who was pinned in the auto.

Madison and Venice police, Madison County sheriff's deputies and the Illinois State Police cooperated in handling the heavy traffic and at the accident scene.

and darvon pills, by prescription, and had taken a darvon about 11:30 a.m. the day of the accident. He then said he had a tire repaired in Granite City and stopped at the Village Inn in Maryville for a shot of whiskey and one or possibly two beers.

He said he then purchased a 12-pack of beer and two half-pints of whiskey, which he did not open. Crnkovich testified the unopened beer cans and a broken, but sealed, whiskey bottle were found in his station wagon after the accident.

Davis said he then drove to a farm home of Old Route 66 (East Chain of Rocks Road), where he purchased some jars of tomatoes and pickle relish.

While he was driving home, some youths in a car nearby ran his station wagon off the road and Davis said he became angry. "He said when he gets angry, he blacks out," Crnkovich alleged.

The trooper also said Davis stated he continued onto Route 157 and turned onto State Aid Route 35, still very angry, and was about one-quarter mile from home when he struck something, but did not know what. "He believes he may have blacked out," Crnkovich told the coroner's jury.

The trooper said he investigated Davis' statement and found most of it true, except that he also allegedly stopped in two taverns he failed to mention in the statement.

After leaving the Village Inn, he allegedly went to Charlie's Tavern in Maryville, witnesses told Crnkovich. From there, evidence indicates Davis did drive to the farmer's home and purchased the jars of tomatoes and relish.

Driving east from the farmer's home, he allegedly stopped at Elsie's Lounge (the former Roundhouse) on Old Route 66 and sold her two pints of relish, "which he told them he makes himself," Crnkovich testified.

Witnesses said Davis, who is known to them as "Sarge," bought a drink for everyone at the Elsie's Lounge bar and then drank three or four beers before Elita Mae Conbray, 42, of Granite City, the bartender, asked him to leave because he allegedly was pestering another customer.

"That was probably the last place he was at prior to the accident," Crnkovich told the coroner's jury.

Alvin W. Busch, an evidence specialist with the Department of Law Enforcement, said he examined the vehicles in the accident and concluded there was no evidence indicating Davis had been drinking in his station wagon. The broken whiskey bottle was still sealed and all 12 beer cans were unopened.

Busch said he was unable to estimate the speed either vehicle was traveling when they collided. He noted there were gouge marks in the pavement of the eastbound lane, indicating that is where the accident occurred.

Mizell said Mr. Lehman and the two girls died of sudden traumatic head and chest injuries. Blood tests showed that Mr. Lehman's system was free of any alcohol or drug content.

The coroner's jury then deliberated in private and reached its verdict after only five minutes, finding that the three deaths were the result of reckless homicide.

The coroner's jury finding has no application to criminal charges against Davis. The jury is convened only to determine the cause of death for the death certificates.

The inquest into the cause of death of Jewell Jeffords, 40, and Shirley Jeffords, 52, both of LeMay, Mo., on Interstate 70 the night of Jan. 9, followed.

Trooper Paul Dutton testified that the Jeffords' car was stopped in a traffic lane of the Interstate while the two changed the tire. An auto driven by Steven Tarnowski, 25, Owensville, Mo., approached and struck the car and the Jeffords couple, fatally injuring them, Dutton said.

Tarnowski has been charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and two counts of reckless homicide in connection with the incident. He also was unable to attend the inquest, since he remains hospitalized.

Attorney Bill Brandt of Granite City represented Tarnowski at the hearing, but was not allowed to question the witnesses.

Dutton testified that a passing Illinois Emergency Patrol truck driver saw the Jeffords in traffic attempting to flag down help just before they were struck.

Busch testified that Mr. Jeffords' blood also had been tested in a laboratory and indicated the alcohol content in the blood exceeded the legal level for driving.

The coroner's jury then met privately and reported it was unable to determine liability in the deaths, recommending that a county grand jury be asked to study the issue.

While Sen. Kennedy first said New England victories were essential to his capture of the Democratic nomination for president, he now says that no matter what the outcome he will remain in the race all the way to the convention in New York City this summer.

But Luce confirmed that the senator regards Illinois as extremely important to his hopes of occupying the White House as his brother, John F. Kennedy, did in 1960-63. And he forecast an all-out effort here and elsewhere in the state in the next six weeks, leading to success in the Illinois primary.

Other schools in the area have reported some increases in absenteeism, much of it related to influenza.

St. Margaret Mary School reported 38 students absent Wednesday or nearly 18 percent of the school has a total enrollment of 214.

Public schools in Venice and Madison report average absenteeism for the beginning of this week, but some note the sending home of some students with the symptoms of influenza.

Other parochial schools in Granite City, Madison and Venice reported normal or average absenteeism.

Excluding the two high schools in Granite City School District Nine, the rate of absenteeism in every school except rather Junior High was reported to have been slightly higher than normal as of Wednesday, with a district increase of slightly more than four percent reported.

Schuler said the possibility of general obligation bonds to finance the remaining $400,000 has not been ruled out, but the aldermen have indicated they are opposed to the GO bonds unless no other means of financing the overpass can be found.

GO bonds would be repaid through taxation and aldermen are reluctant to vote for new property taxation.

The mayor predicted that anyone who hopes the $400,000 can be found in the city's funds probably will be disappointed. "The budget already is stretched and negotiations are under way with city employees.

"It looks like we are talking about a rather sizeable increase in salaries, considering the inflation rate and increases in the cost of living. I don't think we can expect belt-tightening by city employees when nobody else is tightening his belt now," he concluded.

About Your Medicines

by The United States Pharmacopoeial Convention, Inc.

TETRACYCLINES

Tetracyclines belong to the general family of medicines called antibiotics. They are used to help the body overcome infections and to help control acne. Tetracyclines are available only with your doctor's prescription.

Apply to [some common brand names have been included in brackets]:

- Chlortetracycline (klor-tetra-SYE-kleen) (Achromycin)
- Methacycline (meth-a-SYE-kleen) (Rondomycin)
- Oxytetracycline (ox-i-tetra-SYE-kleen) (Tetracycline)
- Tetracycline (tetra-SYE-kleen) (Achromycin, Tetracycline, Sumycin, Tetracycline)

Proper Use of This Medicine

• Tetracyclines are best taken with a full glass (8 ounces) of water on an empty stomach (either 1 hour before or 2 hours after meals). However, if this medicine upsets your stomach, you may want you to take it with food.

• To help clear up your infection completely, keep taking this medicine for the full time of treatment even if you begin to feel better after a few days; do not miss any doses. This is especially important if you have a "strep" infection, since serious heart problems could develop later if your infection is not completely cleared up.

• If you do miss a dose of this medicine, take it as soon as possible. However, if it is almost time for your next dose, you may either double the next dose or space the missed dose and the next dose 1 or 2 hours apart. Then go back to your regular dosing schedule.

• If this medicine becomes outdated (old), has been stored incorrectly (too warm or too damp), or otherwise appears to have broken down, do not use it; discard by flushing it down the toilet. If you have any questions about this, check with your doctor or pharmacist.

• Do not give tetracyclines to infants or children under 8 years of age unless directed by your doctor.

Precautions While Using This Medicine

• If your symptoms do not improve within a few days (or a few weeks or months for acne patients) or if they become worse, check with your doctor.

• Do not take milk or milk formulas; other dairy products; aluminum-, calcium-, or magnesium-containing antacids; magnesium-containing laxatives; or sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) within 1 to 2 hours of the time you take tetracyclines. Do not take iron preparations (included also in some vitamin preparations) within 2 to 3 hours of the time you take tetracyclines.

• Before having surgery (including dental surgery) with a general anesthetic, tell the doctor or dentist in charge that you are taking a tetracycline.

• Some people who take tetracyclines may become more sensitive to sunlight than they are normally. When you first begin taking this medicine, avoid too much sun or too much use of a sunlamp until you see how you react, especially if you tend to burn easily. You may still be more sensitive to sunlight or sunlamps for 2 weeks to several months or more after stopping this medicine. If you have a severe reaction, check with your doctor.

Side Effects of This Medicine

• Along with its needed effects, a medicine may cause some unwanted effects. In some infants and children tetracyclines may cause the teeth to become discolored. Check with your doctor if you notice this effect or if you have any questions about it.

• Other side effects may occur which usually do not require medical attention. These side effects may go away during treatment as your body adjusts to the medicine. However, check with your doctor if any of the following side effects continue or are bothersome:

- Cramps or burning
- Litching of the rectal or genital areas
- Diarrhea
- Nausea
- Increased sensitivity to sunlight
- Sore mouth or tongue
- Vomiting

• In some patients tetracyclines may cause the tongue to become darkened or discolored. These changes are only temporary and will go away when you stop taking this medicine.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

For patients taking the oral liquid form of this medicine

• Use a specially marked measuring spoon or other device to measure each dose accurately, since the average household teaspoon may not hold the right amount of liquid.

Ladies, Start Your Engines

The importance of clean oil

By SHIRLEY MULDOWNY

Q. When should the oil in my car be changed and should the filter be changed each time?

A. Clean oil means the parts it is lubricating will last longer. Oil gets dirty because particles of dirt or metal are engulfed and this foreign material wears away at engine parts. Oil also can deteriorate through age and thus lose some of its lubricating ability.

The owner's manual will tell you how often to change oil under normal conditions, probably every 6,000 to 8,000 miles or every six months. However, more frequent changes will only help your engine and if you drive in a dusty area or do considerable city driving more frequent changes are a must.

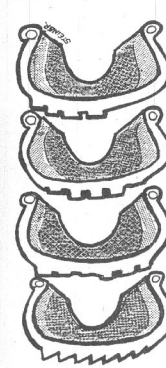

An oil change is a relatively cheap insurance policy on the engine.

The oil filter helps clean the oil and prevent dirt and grit from flowing into work parts. If you are going to put clean oil into the engine you don't want it flowing through a dirty filter. Therefore the filter should be changed each time the oil is changed.

Incidentally, changing the oil is not a difficult thing to do yourself. Only two tools — a wrench to remove the drain plug and a filter can to remove the oil filter — are needed along with a pan to catch the old oil.

Q. My tires are wearing on one side. What is causing this?

A. In racing, a tire can be a tuning device for the car.

Against the road, the temperature of the tread in various spots across the tire, it can be determined if the suspension has been adjusted correctly.

On the street, a tire can

The art of necking

By CATE TUTTLE

You probably don't think much about your neck unless you're washing it, performing it or getting it kissed.

You'll go along just fine until one day you'll notice that your neck is getting its very own tiny lines. When that day comes you'll probably also notice that it has started wrinkling rather early on in the state of affairs.

A woman who pays a lot of attention to her face and eyes would be wise to include her throat. With minimal fatty tissue and almost no oil, it's much like the delicate skin around the eyes, which, of course, ages first on the face.

become a very expensive omen of suspension problems. If the suspension — shock absorbers, ball joints, springs, tie rods, control arms, etc. — is not in good condition, a tire will not distribute the weight of the car evenly on the road and consequently will wear unevenly.

Tires that wear on one side mean you need an alignment job. The wheel probably has excessive camber — the wheel is leaning too much to the inside or outside, placing too much pressure on one side of the tread or the other. When this happens, the outer or inner ribs or shoulders of the tire wear down faster than the rest of the tire.

Two other signs of suspension troubles that show up in tires are cupping or feathering.

Cupping, when dips or cups appear in the tread, may mean the wheel assemblies are out of balance, shock absorbers need to be replaced or ball joints are worn.

Feathering, when edges of the tread ribs are uneven, is caused by erratic scrubbing against the road. The toe is not set properly and the tires are trying to roll in a pigeon-toed or splay-footed condition. In addition to wearing out tires rapidly, this situation also increases fuel consumption.

Cosmetically, you should treat your neck with your eye area. Morning and night clean it and follow with a moisturizer, even if you don't use one on your face. Always sweep your hand in an upward motion when applying anything to the neck. And keep a good sunscreen on it when you are going to be in the sun.

It's not usually necessary to use foundation on your neck. Normally, foundation should fade just under the chin. There's an exception, however. If your neck has yellowed and is not the same color as your face, you may need to extend foundation down your throat. Otherwise, your made-up face could look pink against the color of your neck. You should dilute the foundation you use on the throat by adding one part distilled water to one part foundation.

Good circulation is primary for warding off aging and yellowing skin. Yet the neck is one of the least exercised areas of the body.

If you're over 25 or show signs of premature aging, you should devote three minutes a day to stretching and turning exercises. Roll your head, turn it every way possible, but out your jaw and pull it back. You can vary this routine with a good isometric exercise. Using the neck muscles, push your forehead against your hands. Also by relaxing on a slant board or in some position where your feet are elevated, you bring blood to your neck and face and slow aging tremendously.

Another exercise for the neck: Sit up or stand straight. Clap your hands behind your head and drop your head forward. Continue forward and let your elbows come together in front of your face for a slow count of three. Repeat as often as necessary.

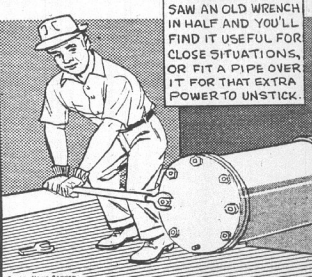

In addition, don't spend long periods propped on two pillows. This position brings your chin down and impedes circulation. Avoid sleeping on a pillow that thrusts your chin toward your chest. Use a pillow that supports your neck, but lets your head tilt back.

The neck area is often where you feel tension first. To soothe and relieve it, inhale and tense the neck and shoulders as tightly as possible. Now during the exhale, let all the muscles really go. Repeat three times.

A warm bath helps and a natural bristle brush for the nape of the neck and shoulders is good for circulation and tension.

Better than gold?

By CHARLES WEBB

Copyright 1980

Some "ordinary" used cars are rising in value faster than gold.

The last American convertible was made in April 1976. Since then, ragtops have become increasingly sought after, and not just for nostalgic reasons. Some postwar convertibles are proving to be blue chip investments. Gains of 20 percent or more a year in value are not uncommon. A few have doubled in value since last year.

Not all ragtops are equally desirable. Currently, one of the most popular are: 1957-67 Chevrolet Bel Airs, 1967-69 Chevrolet Camaros, 1957 Chevrolet Corvettes, 1964 and one-half-66 Ford Mustangs, 1955-57 Ford Thunderbirds, and 1967-69 Pontiac Firebirds.

Options can greatly affect the value of a convertible. For example, cars with factory fuel injection are worth up to $2,000 more than the same cars without. And having the $295 GTO package can double the value of a 1964 Pontiac LeMans convertible. Other desirable options include: four-speed manual transmission, air conditioning, power packages, bucket seats and high-powered V8 engines.

To be worth a lot, a ragtop must be stock, that is, have the original engine, transmission and interior. Also, almost always worth much less, only convertibles in very good to excellent condition should be considered for investment purposes. It could cost more to fix up a car than what you can sell it for.

In addition to area used car lots and the classified ads of a local newspaper, a good place to find nice ragtops is in the "car for sale" sections of car collector publications. The major ones include: Car Enthusiast, Cars and Parts, Hemmings Motor News and Old Cars Newspaper.

Besides being good investments, ragtops can also be very practical. Most of the compact convertibles of the 1960s (Ford Falcons, Chevrolet Corvairs and Novas, Dodge Darts, Studebaker Larks, Pontiac Tempests, Oldsmobile F-85s, and specials, Plymouth Valiants, and Rambler Americans) can go over 20 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

The rapidly growing interest in car collecting, the fact most convertibles are still relatively low priced (with a lot of room for growth in value) plus the unequalled pleasure of cruising with the top down, help make con-

Did you know that all of us could have a caries-free mouth for life?

Most of us know that germ colonies attack and glue themselves to the teeth. We also know one way to remove these colonies is to have the dentist "clean" your teeth.

But your "clean" mouth lasts only a short time, because microbes start to grow back when we again put suitable food into our mouths. It takes only a few days to have enough build-up of germs to be right back where you started, with a plaque-filled mouth.

But only you can prevent dental caries for yourself! This is how:

One, daily removal of germs from those specific areas where the attack begins and advances, that is, on the front, back and chewing surfaces with your brush, between the teeth with floss. ONLY YOU CAN DO IT.

Two, eliminate the frequency of sugar and flour entering your mouth. This, too, ONLY YOU can do for yourself.

Three, increase your teeth's resistance to this acid attack. Through diet and by topical application of calcium, phosphate and fluoride ions to impregnate enamel, through contact with healthy saliva. But a beautiful smile starts with you.

vertibles an increasingly popular investment.

Before investing in a ragtop, you might want to go to your local public library and check out a copy of the new book: "The Investor's Illustrated Guide to American Convertible and Special Interest Automobiles, 1946-1976." It covers in detail, on a car-by-car basis, important information on every postwar American convertible made.

Chouteau saving electricity

During a brief meeting of the Chouteau Town Board of Trustees Monday night, the board decided to conserve energy by separating the lights for the community center from the lights being used for the office of Assessor Marion Sparks.

It was noted that Sparks has moved his office into the township hall and it is necessary to turn on the lights for the entire hall when he is working.

Supervisor Walter "Dick" Sparks said he has obtained prices from several contractors on putting the assessor's office on a separate light switch, to conserve energy.

The trustees authorized the supervisor to get a firm price from the contractor who gave the lowest estimate.

The board then will act at a future meeting on a contract for the work.

Preschoolers' progress

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension Adviser

Home Economics
From time to time, most parents wonder if their preschool children are progressing normally toward a full and happy life.

There are several guidelines by which parents may gauge the development of their preschool youngsters.

The criteria apply to the basic functions of the child. Because children's feelings and activities fluctuate so widely, parents are advised to observe their child's usual behaviors over a period of three to four weeks.

The "vital signs" for parents to assess are:
—Sleep. Over a period of about a month, the child should fall asleep easily and wake up rested and "ready to go" most of the time.

Occasional fussing and crankiness are to be expected, but if such conduct is typical, take a closer look at the child's situation.

—Appetite. While children may occasionally skip meals, they should generally eat with a hearty appetite. If you see few signs of real appetite over a period of a week or two, then take a closer look at the child's life.

—Bowel and bladder control. The child should be steadily progressing toward bowel and bladder control, especially during the day. However, occasional mishaps should not cause concern.

—Signs of affection. Children should spontaneously express affection for those around them. This is a pretty reliable sign that the child feels included and cared for, and has a worthwhile life.

—Confidence. Ordinarily, the child should be outgoing and willing to do things with others. Reluctance to participate in peer activities may indicate that problems are getting in the way of development.

—Expressions of emotion. The child should express a range of emotions including joy, anger and fear, over a period of time. If the emotional range is limited, then parents may want to take a look at the child's situation.

Problems in one of these areas do not necessarily indicate a serious disturbance in development. It's the overall pattern of functioning in all of these areas that helps put the child's growth into perspective.

It is important to remember that whatever may be disturbing the child is probably only temporary. Keep in mind that children are very resilient.

If there are small disturbances in these areas of development, the parent should spend some time alone with the child, doing something both of them enjoy.

Children need to be assured and reassured that they are cared for and valued. If this is done, it usually is easy to restore the feelings of security and self-worth that every child needs in order to thrive.

All you wanted to know about military registration

(White House Press Office)

As President Carter announced, he will submit legislative and budget proposals to Congress next month to support a revitalization of the Selective Service System, and will thereafter resume registration.

The specific age group to be involved has yet to be determined; we have not decided whether or not women will be included.

Actual registration will take place at the more than 34,000 local post offices throughout the country, with the assistance of postal employees and under a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Postal Service.

Details of registration will be announced and fully publicized well in advance.

Q. What is the status of the Selective Service System today?

A. Selective Service has been in a "standby" posture, with skeleton staffing of fewer than 100 people at headquarters and in six regional offices.

This staff would be augmented in time of emergency by 715 assigned military reservists and members of the National Guard but this small organization is obviously a bare minimum.

Last fall, the president asked the new director of Selective Service (Dr. Bernard D. Rostker) to review the organization, staffing and plans of the Selective Service, and to make recommendations which would lead toward improved registration. Those recommendations will be the basis for the announced legislative and budget proposals.

Q. What sort of recommendations?

A. They involve such matters as staffing, data processing support, and cooperation with other federal agencies — such as the U.S. Postal Service, as noted above. Specific details will be included in the president's recommendations.

Q. Who will be required to register?

A. The Military Selective Service Act creates a window of eligibility between the ages of 18 and 26; whether all in that group will be called upon to register, or whether it will be only a portion, will depend upon an assessment of the pool needed to meet requirements.

Q. What is involved in registration?

A. Registration is a straightforward administrative process; the registrant merely fills out a form, giving name, address, date of birth and parents' names and addresses.

Registrants do have a continuing responsibility to inform the Selective Service of any change of address, but that is also a simple administrative process.

Q. How many people will need to be added to the Selective Service, and how much will all of this cost?

A. Staffing and funding will in part be predicated on the size of the manpower pool to be created, and that has yet to be determined. The costs are estimated at $10 million in Fiscal 1980 and $10 million in Fiscal 1981.

Q. What else is involved in the draft?

A. Should the president determine that additional measures should be taken, they would include classification and examination, whereby the size of the pool actually ready and available for induction would be determined.

It would be at this point that individuals would have the right to ask for a change in classification, or to petition for exemption or deferment.

The president has called only for registration, to create the pool from which inductions could be made on relatively short notice at some time if needed.

This is not a "reinstitution" of the draft, as you're seeing a resumption of registration.

Q. Does the President need permission of Congress for this move?

A. The president has the authority to resume registration, including classification and examination if he deems such to be necessary.

Any subsequent power to induce would have to come from Congress.

While the president does not need the "approval" of Congress, there are budgetary considerations in which Congress will play a role, and the president will seek the support of Congress in this move.

Q. Why is the President taking this step at this time?

A. That was implicit in the tone and content of the State of the Union message.

Q. Isn't this just the first nail in the coffin of the All Volunteer Forces, and the first step toward a resumption of a peacetime draft?

A. As the President stated, he has faith in the AVF concept; resumption of registration is not linked to any shortfalls in AVF recruiting, but intended to increase the readiness of the armed forces to respond to a major emergency situation.

When the AVF was created, it was never intended to stand alone in time of crisis; it would be augmented by military reservists and, as soon as practicable, with draftees.

Q. How long would it actually take to draft someone? We've heard statements that put the time as long as seven months.

A. The actual time required to induce someone would depend on the circumstances, including, of course, how much work had been done in advance — such as this first step of registration. The bulk of that seven months figure would involve the processing and training of the individual once in the armed forces.

Q. The Department of Defense has stated that its requirements are to have the first induction report by the 30th day after mobilization, and 100,000 by the 60th day. Are those figures current, and can those deadlines be met by the standby Selective Service?

A. Those requirements were set several years ago; there may be some changes contemplated but there is no immediate information on that. The first induction report by the 30th day after mobilization, and 100,000 by the 60th day, are those figures current, and can those deadlines be met by the standby Selective Service?

A. Those requirements were set several years ago; there may be some changes contemplated but there is no immediate information on that. The first induction report by the 30th day after mobilization, and 100,000 by the 60th day, are those figures current, and can those deadlines be met by the standby Selective Service?

Q. How will registration be enforced? What penalties will be imposed on those who refuse to register?

A. To be determined.

Q. Will local draft boards be re-instituted?

A. Registration per se does not involve local draft boards.

We plan to select and train local board members for availability in any subsequent mobilization emergency, and we are developing specific plans to do this.

Q. Do you really need the "address readiness"? How many days or weeks are you really buying, if you can really register a lot of people in just a matter of a few days?

A. The registration process obviously involves advance planning and a number of follow-on actions which extend well beyond a few days, and we obviously will have more confidence in an operating system than in a contingency plan.

Q. Must resident aliens register for the draft?

A. Yes.

Q. How do you plan to start registration?

A. We expect to begin registration within the next several months.

Q. Does the president presently have the legal authority to register women?

A. No. This would require Congressional action.

Q. How would the registration system work?

A. Details are still being worked out. However, there are several options.

For example, our proposed system will utilize existing government resources. We are working with the Postal Service, procedures by which young men will go to their local post office and register.

Under current law men between 18 and 26 years of age can be registered. We may, however, decide to register only specific age groups in order to create a pool sufficient to meet anticipated requirements.

We do not anticipate registration cards. Nor will physicals be given.

Q. We already have the forms that will be needed, calling for name, address, date of birth, and parents' name and address.

Q. Was the president's decision on registration a hurried, last-minute decision?

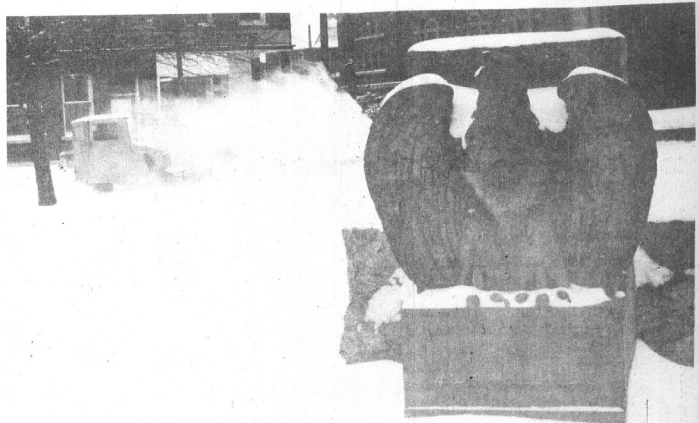

A. No. It is accurate to say that the invasion of Afghanistan, a sovereign nation by the Soviet Union, and the subsequent threat to vital oil supply lines in the Persian Gulf precipitated this move to increase our readiness. However, we have been reviewing the Selective Service for several months and a report — begun months before the Afghanistan invasion — is nearly completed. The report will be presented to the president by Feb. 9.

Q. Could you recap exactly what it is the president has called for?

A. President Carter has ordered that "the process of registration — that is, to have young men identify themselves to Selective Service and keep Selective Service informed of their current addresses."

The president has not ordered that we examine or classify those individuals for the draft.

In addition, he has not asked Congress for the power to draft people. He does not consider these additional steps necessary, however, the availability of current registration data will obviously speed our ability to augment the military forces.

Delay action on 10 Venice apartments for senior citizens

By MICK STRANGE of the Press-Record

The Venice City Council Tuesday evening delayed approving a request from the Madison County Housing Authority to build 10 new senior citizen units until the Monday, Feb. 11, 8 p.m. council meeting.

Although the aldermen were in general agreement with the adding of 10 new apartments, concern was expressed over the "rush" to get it approved.

According to City Attorney Harry Hartman, the County Housing Authority did not apply for these units, but was "notified out of the blue" that HUD (U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development) would approve the construction.

The units would be built on housing authority land located west of the Lee Wright Homes. Sidewalks would be built along Bissell Street, which would border the new units on the north, it was related.

There would be no construction cost to the city; however, Venice would have to accept maintenance of any sidewalks, streets or sanitary sewers constructed. The units would not go on the property tax rolls, although payments are made in lieu of such taxes.

The housing authority noted that HUD has set a Feb. 8 deadline for acceptance, but felt a four-day delay beyond that would not hinder the project.

"Our concern is really not over the housing authority, but with HUD. We certainly need these units for the elderly, but we also need tax-bearing units. We tried to get tax-producing housing units right across the street from Lee Wright Homes and HUD said no," Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols said.

Mayor Echols instructed the city attorney and aldermen housing committee to review the MCHA request for action at the next council meeting.

A letter from Illinois Power Co. advised the City Council that rent for light arms on the utility poles at the Broadway underpass area has been increased from $15.86 to $19.03 per month. This was referred to the Street and Alley committee and the legal department.

Aldermen questioned whether such a charge was provided for in the city's electric service contract with the power company.

Mayor Echols noted that although there would be some hardship cases in which families could not pay an ambulance charge, many of the names on the city's ambulance bill list are those of gainfully employed persons. He instructed the city attorney to begin collection action against those who can pay.

Representatives of the library board informed the council they would like to repay $6,810 owed the city. In order to ease the repayment, the council suggested that the amount be paid in two portions, rather than all at once.

A county spokesman said Bartley "took over the program and ran it in the director's absence. Due to the excellent job he did and his overall job performance and attitude, he earned this award," the spokesman added.

Bartley currently is enrolled at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville where he is an accounting major.

The award is from the National Child Labor Committee and recipients are selected from job performance analyses submitted to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Bartley was the assistant director of the YET program in the Madison and Venice area when the director was unable to fulfill his duties for about seven weeks.

Kids capture 2 in robbery

Six area teenagers are being credited with the capture of an alleged robber and the alleged driver of his getaway car after a robbery at 10:10 p.m. Tuesday at the E & L Quick Shop, 5527 Maryville Road, Mitchell.

David Allan Myrt, 23, Jennings, Mo., and Mary Karen Bach, 18, Riverview Gardens, were captured by the teenagers minutes after the incident and have been charged with robbery.

Deputies were told the robber entered the store and brought a six-pack of beer to the counter.

When the clerk told him the price, he reached in his pocket and handed her a note which said, "I've got a gun. Give me your bills and you won't be hurt."

She gave the robber about $70 and he walked away from the store, turning left along Maryville Road.

The clerk notified another employee, Rita Kinzel, who followed the man on foot. Several friends joined Miss Kinzel in following the man.

Near the Edwards Mobile Home Park, the man started to enter a car with Missouri license plates, with a young woman. It was related. The five young men and Miss Kinzel stopped the two of them and returned them to the store, where the clerk allegedly identified Myrt.

They were held until Madison County sheriff's deputies arrived. Deputies alleged finding money in the rear of the car Myrt was seen entering.

The two were charged with robbery, a felony, in informational documents from the Madison County state's attorney's office and appeared before Associate Judge John W. Day Wednesday. Their bond was set at $50,000 each and they were sent to the Madison County Jail in lieu of bond.

Sheriff Emil Toffant commented Wednesday, "I think the actions by these young people were tremendous, especially considering their ages. All are 18 or 19 years old."

"In these days, most people would rather not get involved. These young people were willing to get involved and law enforcement needs this kind of people," Toffant said.

He offered his congratulations to Gary Taylor, Jerry Eagen, Dennis Moreland, Harry Adams, David Wimberly and Miss Kinzel, all of Paul Home Park.

He allegedly attempted to cash a check stolen from the Mitchell home at a local bank. A teller said she refused to cash the check, since she knew the man who presented it was not the man whose name was on the check.

She alleged Myruel left the bank, and she told her husband, who notified deputies. The investigation into Myruel indicated that Hall may have been involved in one of the burglaries at the Mitchell home, so both were being sought for questioning when arrested in Chicago, according to Hertz.

Arrested in Chicago on local cases

Henry P. Myruel, 19, Box 342, Route 162, Granite City, and Terry L. Hall, 20, who resides at Fourth and State streets in Madison, were arrested in Chicago Monday and have been charged with burglary.

They are charged individually with separate burglaries at a Mitchell home Jan. 16 and 24.

La. Robert Hertz, chief of detectives for the Madison County Sheriff's Department, said the charges are based on items Chicago police alleged finding in their possession when the two were allegedly questioned there in connection with a drug investigation.

It is alleged Myruel had in his possession several checks written to the Mitchell victim which were stolen from the home Jan. 18.

Hall allegedly had the victim's wallet, which was stolen Jan. 24. Bond has been set at $50,000 each and a deputy returned the two from Chicago Tuesday evening for further investigation.

Deputies said they first began searching for Myruel after he

Health officials tracing cattle

State and federal veterinarians are tracing recent sales of cattle from a Fulton County farm following laboratory confirmation of cattle scabies in that herd.

Scabies is a condition brought about by tiny mites which burrow into the skin, primarily above the animal's shoulders, back and tail. Intense itching occurs and the animal rubs, licks, and scratches the infested areas until the skin becomes raw—leading to even more discomfort.

Loss of weight usually follows, and death may result.

State and federal epidemiologists are currently working to trace the origin of the Fulton County infestation.

In addition, cattle that were subsequently sold from the Fulton County farm are now being traced by officials, to determine if those animals are carrying the mites which could infest more herds.

Animal health officials are concerned about the outbreak because scabies have been under control in Illinois and most other Midwestern states for several years.

Scabies appeared on two Illinois farms last year—but was brought quickly under control. A Henry County herd was treated and a Bureau County herd was sent to slaughter because the animals were near market weight when the infestation occurred.

Scabies is controlled by "dipping" cattle in vats containing a solution of the chemical ionophore or other approved miticide.

The practice of "dipping" was common in the Old West and is still used today in some Western areas where scabies is still prevalent.

State law requires that cattle from several Western states be dipped before they may cross the borders into Illinois.

Those states include Nebraska and South Dakota as well as portions of Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Scabies can be detected in early stages by constant movement of animals, rubbing, scratching, licking, and tail switching—even during cold weather, when no insects are apparent.

The eradication effort is being coordinated by the Illinois Department of Agriculture's Division of Meat, Poultry and Livestock Inspection.

Community leaders asked to help recruit troopers

Community leaders are being asked by the Illinois State Police to help them recruit top quality applicants in a current drive for 160 new state police.

Illinois State Troopers Calvin Dye of East St. Louis and Jon Lybarger of Granite City spoke to the Granite City Rotary Club Tuesday, Rotarian William Winter, program chairman, introduced the troopers.

"We work for you and that is why we are coming to you to help us recruit the type of officer you want," Lybarger said.

"We joke about the 55 mph speed limit, but it is working. I know a Rotarian would never speed, but should you be stopped you want to be treated like a gentleman."

"We need recruits who can treat the public in a respectful way. We want recruits who come recommended by responsible citizens."

Requirements outlined by Trooper Lybarger were: 21 to 36 age range, with both male and female applicants being accepted; high school graduate or hold equivalency certificate; 20-20 vision in each eye, corrected, with no color blindness and 100 percent depth perception.

A candidate must be physically fit and agile, with the weight in proportion to height. Each applicant must be a citizen of the United States, with no felony convictions.

A candidate must be willing to accept assignments anywhere in the state and have a valid driver's license.

Trooper Dye pointed out that self discipline is the key to success. He said it is during 18-week academy training that the candidates for the state police find out if they can do the job.

Dye noted that a trooper's best weapon in almost any situation is to be able to communicate with the other person.

"When some one starts giving you a lot a verbal abuse, you have to be able to take it. You have to be able to talk to all types of people," Dye said.

"Another thing, should you know of a young man interested, if his wife does not want to relocate, then forget it."

"You're going to have to relocate and generally to the northern part of the state, because that is where the openings are."

"After a person has been a trooper for a few years he may be able to relocate."

"Most of the troopers want to relocate in southern Illinois because the cost of living is much less than in the Chicago area," Dye said.

Of the 160 new troopers, which will be divided into four academy classes, 50 percent are to be white males, 43 percent minority males and seven percent must be women. The next class is scheduled to start Nov. 1.

Person interested in contacting either trooper may telephone 345-1212. A special tribute was paid to Dr. George T. Wilkins Sr., who is a past Rotary district governor.

In a mini-review, Wilkins was praised for accomplishments as a coach, teacher, local, county and state school administrator, college professor, business man and civic leader. It was noted that he has always applied the Rotary Four Way Test: truth, fairness, goodwill and benefit to all concerned.

It was announced that the Rotary Chili Day is scheduled for Tuesday, March 11, at the Niedringhaus United Methodist Church.

On Tuesday, Feb. 12, the Rotary Rotarians will hold a Valentine dinner dance at the Granite City Army Installation. Reservations will be accepted through Feb. 5 by Rotarian Joe Hassel or Rotarian Dan Partney. Cost is $7.50 per person.

Hit with blackjack

Mulligan said he had just driven a young woman to the home to pick up some belongings she had there when one of the residents of the house asked him to come to the front porch.

He went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where he was admitted.

Many job openings but fewer than a year ago

There are 504,426 permanent, full-time jobs available through state employment service Job Banks across the nation, the Department of Labor has reported in the new edition of "Occupation In Demand at Job Service Offices."

"Occupations In Demand" identifies the occupations most frequently listed at Job Service offices.

The 504,426 openings at local offices of the state Job Service agencies represent an average of 2,654 openings at the 190 local Job Banks.

There are more people looking for employment and significantly fewer jobs listed by employers than a year ago. However, historically there is a seasonal drop in employment at this time of year.

The Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration cautions that there is no guarantee that jobs listed in the bulletin are still available. They represent occupations for which there was continuing demand in the communities listed.

Changes in Job Bank openings totals are computed from "matched samples" developed to cover only those geographic areas represented in both current and previous-period surveys.

These "matched samples" are called comparable districts. Samples are compared from current month to previous month and from current month this year to the same month in the previous year. The trend of fewer job openings being listed in these comparable districts over the year continues.

November 1979 Job Bank openings for comparable districts were 15.9 percent less than in the same month a year ago. This is the fourteenth consecutive time since the data were first published in June 1977 that one month's job openings have been less than in the same month the previous year.

Of the total number of current 447,395 job openings for comparable districts, about 238,776, or 53.4 percent, had been filed or cancelled by the end of the month. This left 208,619 jobs still available as of Dec. 1. Month-to-month changes in the data may not reflect cyclical variations, as this information is not adjusted for seasonality.

Seventeen local areas represented had gains in openings between October and November. Increases were recorded in California (San Diego and San Jose), Colorado (Pueblo), District of Columbia, Illinois (northwest), Kentucky (western), Nebraska (northeast and public service), Tennessee (eastern and lower east), Texas (Austin, Beaumont, Houston, Midland and San Antonio) and West Virginia (statewide).

Only five industries showed gains from October to November in the number of Job Bank openings listed. Industry gains for comparable districts occurred, among employers associated with: Tobacco manufacturers (up 29 percent); bituminous coal and lignite mining (up 22 percent); insurance (up 12 percent); private households (up 10 percent); and oil and gas extraction (up 1 percent).

There were only four occupational areas with 1,000 or more total openings with percent increases in openings. They include those employing or involving: managers and officials, domestic services, household and related work, and welding cutting and related work.

There was a group with 800 or more total openings which also showed a percent increase of openings listed over the previous month—amusement and recreation service occupations.

This information is based on a monthly U.S. Employment Service survey of state Job Bank Services comprising 2,500 local offices across the country. The computerized Job Bank system operates in virtually every state.

Although this network does not include all job openings that exist in the economy, Job Banks comprise the largest, most comprehensive and up-to-date listings.

Commission auxiliary meets

A "get acquainted" potluck dinner in connection with a membership drive was held this week by the Mexican Honorary Commission Women's Auxiliary at the MHC Hall, 1801 Spruce St.

Miss Lisa Garcia presided and appointed Julie Mendoza Barnes as historian and Debbie Thick as program chairman.

Candidates were nominated for positions on the board of directors, with an election planned at the next meeting. In the business session, approval was given for a fund raising project during the commission's traditional fiesta in May.

It was announced that a rape prevention program is scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday, March 30, at the MHC Hall, which includes the showing of a film, entitled "How To Say No To A Rapist."

The newly formed auxiliary currently is recruiting new members and further information about the organization may be obtained from any of the women already involved, Miss Garcia said.

In addition to those named also at the dinner meeting were Toni Short, Rose Grim, Sarita Garcia, Ruth Elliott, Julie Barnes, Barbara Fithen, Harlene Metzger, Helen Valencia, Dorothy Robles, Mary Bridick, Ophelia Antoff, Vicki Valencia Stich and Ruby Ybarra.

Miss Frances Lynch entertained the Bay View Club on Thursday at her home on Center Street. She served a dessert course to 18 members and two guests, Mrs. F. A. VonGruening and Mrs. G. A. Holzner.

Continuing the club's study of China, Miss Lily Dod presented a program on Chinese poetry.

Miss Dod read translations from the poetry and explained that most of it was ancient poetry, some written as early as 100 A.D. She used a book by Arthur Waley as the source of her material.

Mrs. Herman Huxel, president, conducted a business meeting before the program. Tentative plans were made for a day-long tour the group is planning for a meeting in April.

Others attending the meeting were Mesdames Arthur Buente, Wayne Carlisle, Elmer Gruen, Harold Jansen, Russell Johnson, Walter Klein, A. E. Krumsiek, Chris Louis, Lawrence McCauley, Emil Mueller, Dale Rea, Arthur Roman and James Stuart and Miss Hazel Towery.

MARRIED. Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nichols whose wedding was solemnized in an evening ceremony at St. John United Church of Christ. Formerly Miss Maureen Margaret Hogan, the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hartwick, 3201 Kilarney Drive, and the late John L. Hogan. ## Mrs. Gasparovic is guest speaker

The January meeting of the St. Margaret Mary Ladies Club was opened in prayer by Deacon Donald Markovitch. Presiding at the meeting were the new officers for 1980: Pat Knollman, president; Diane Vivio, vice-president; Mickey Strack, secretary; and Pat Alsop, treasurer. Thirty-one members were in attendance with one new member, Mrs. Maureen McGee.

Guest Speaker for the evening was Mrs. Sue Gasparovic representing Alpha Center. Appreciation was accorded to those who helped at the annual golden age dinner and to Stella and Barb Tegel who handled a point-settia project to decorate the church for the holidays.

New chairmen are being sought for the year-long projects Mrs. Knollman said. Joan Roberts reported Church Women United will host a Forum on Feb. 4 at Central Christian Church. Those interested may contact Joan Roberts or Marilyn Aerne, Mrs. Roberts added.

Second grade won the monthly attendance prize for the most mothers present and Brian Haack won the ladies club monthly prize and the quilt of the month winner was Margaret Marlow.

Maureen M. Hogan and Peter Nichols are wed

Miss Maureen Margaret Hogan and Peter Nichols were united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony at 7 o'clock in the evening on Jan. 26 at St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road.

Ivory roses and baby's breath in tall vases and burning tapers and brass holders decorated the altar, with candles in hurricane aisle standards illuminating the setting.

The double ring service was performed by the Rev. Dr. Kenneth Netz.

Presiding the ceremony Steven Sues, organist, played "Evergreen" and "Because."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Hartwick, 3201 Kilarney Drive, and the late John L. Hogan. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Nichols, 2539 Pontoon Road.

Escorted to the altar by her brother-in-law, Paul Joseph Riggins, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight giana complemented with a full length veil of bridal illusion, edged in Venice lace flowers and secured to a lace Juliet cap.

Her dress was fashioned in Victorian style. The Empire bodice of English net was accented with a wide lace ruffle of Venice, creating a V-design to the high waist.

Venice lace motifs were applied on the sheer yoke and tiny stand-up collar, and the long, full sleeves terminated at the wrists in wide lace cuffs.

The accented pleated skirt was encircled with a deep lace flounce and fell softly into a chapel train. She carried an arrangement of ivory rosebuds intermingled with baby's breath and tied with copper brown satin ribbons.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Cynthia Sue Riggins, the bride's sister. She chose a full length gown of Chantilly lace created in a champagne hue and featuring an off-the-shoulder gathered ruff which accented the bodice and formed the cap style sleeves.

Her slightly full skirt of accordion pleats was bordered with a deep flounce of matching lace.

She held a single ivory rose festooned with baby's breath and brown satin streamers.

Serving as candlelighters were Miss Shannon Bushue of Washington, Mo., a niece of the bride, and Drew Geisler, the bride's cousin.

Miss Bushue also attended the guest book. She selected an ivory cotton polyester gown made with a square neckline, narrow shoulder straps and a long, full skirt bordered with a flounce at the hemline, worn with a matching shawl. Her corsage was an ivory rose nestled in green leaves and baby's breath.

Both the honor attendant and candlelighter wore ringlets of baby's breath in their hair. The groom chose Aaron Graham as best man, David Nichols, a brother of the groom, and Michael Holton seated the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Nichols, parents of the groom, entertained members of the wedding party at a dinner held in their home following the church rehearsal.

The newly married Mr. and Mrs. Nichols received 350 guests at a reception held in Engelbert Hall, Madison, immediately following the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hartwick was attired in a floor length gown, designed with a beige chiffon bodice and brown pleated skirt.

Mrs. Nichols appeared in a pink formal gown and long sleeve jacket, enhanced with matching embroidery.

Both mothers wore corsages of ivory roses. A 1978 graduate of Granite City High School South, the bride is a former employee of Chromalloy Corp., St. Louis.

The groom was graduated in 1972 from South high school and is employed at Granite City Steel.

They are residing in Granite City.

Out-of-town guests were from Arizona, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois.

Mrs. Riden is circle hostess

The January meeting of the Epworth Member Busy Circle of the United Methodist Church was held in the home of Norma Riden, with the following present: Helene Bischoff, Virginia Carroll, Janie Patton, Betty Robertson, Betty Weston, Alma Cowan, Alva Stewart, Ruth Hancock, Luan Briner, Pat Bernack, Becky Jones and Norma Riden.

Mrs. Hancock presided over the meeting. Alma Cowan presented the lesson from a book entitled "Meddling Women" by Janice Bailey. The book covers the lives of six women, Mrs. Cowan chose Anne Marberry Hutchinson for the lesson. Anne M. Hutchinson was the first woman to venture into the study of theology and she lived during the 1600's.

The minutes were read by Norma Riden and approved, and the treasurer's report was given by Alta Stewart. Mrs. Betty Robertson gave the prayer before refreshments were served to those who were present.

The Feb. 26 meeting will be held in the home of Janie Patton and Alta Stewart will be the lesson, it was announced.

The meeting was closed with a circle of prayer.

Shower honors Debbie Bushong

Miss Debbie Bushong was guest of honor at a bridal shower given last week at Trinity Methodist Church by Lori Bushong and Denise Dittich.

The buffet table was decorated with lake skirts accented with pink and white ribbons, centered with a decorated cake and wedding bells.

Guest tables were in keeping with the theme, done in ivory and pink and enhanced with tiny umbrellas and pink streamers. Games were played and prizes awarded to the winners followed by the honoree opening her gifts.

Miss Bushong will be married to Tim Tedesco on Feb. 9.

Attending were Mrs. Ruth Tedesco and Mrs. Shirley Bushong, mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Dorothy Gaviner and Mrs. Anna Revack, grandmothers.

Other guests included Mrs. Billie Bailey, Mrs. Olga Simurda and Toni, Mrs. Helen Takmajan, Mrs. Clara Waterson and Monica, Marlene Trower, and Ginny and Laurie Ann, Becky Holland, Dena Takmajan, Mame Tanase, Sophia Dutko, Mrs. Walter Steigemeier, Joanne Dittich, Patti Dittich.

Ruth Valencia becomes Mrs. Stephen Lathrop

Arrangements of white carnations and peach gladioli decorated the altar at Nameoki United Methodist Church for the wedding on Nov. 17 of Miss Ruth Ann Valencia and Stephen Lathrop.

The Rev. Dr. Maxwell Martin officiated at the double ceremony at 5:30 in the evening.

Organist David Long accompanied soloist Greg Heavner as he played the guitar and sang, "Twelfth of Never," "Songbird," and "My Sweet Lady."

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Faustino Valencia, 1701 Spring Ave. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lathrop, 2301 State St.

For her wedding, the bride selected a floor-length gown of white organza over bridal tulle. Scallop and floral silk Venice lace, encrusted with seed pearls, enhanced the modest bodice fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and sheer bishop sleeves.

The A-line skirt, highlighted with a flounce of crystal pleating and accented with lace appliques, merged into a full chapel train.

She wore a double fingertip veil of white bridal illusion edged in scallop lace and secured with a lace and pearl Juliet cap. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses and carnations with sprigs of teal blue baby's breath and miniature daisies.

Attendants included Miss Chris Kaczmarek as maid of honor and Miss Vicki Butch, Miss Patty Bader and Miss Twyla Lathrop, a sister of the groom, as bridesmaids.

They chose identical teal blue qiana dresses designed with cap sleeves, crocheted necklines and draped bodices.

Each attendant held a bouquet of silk peach daisies and magnolias interspersed with baby's breath and tied with satin ribbons.

Flower girls were Charmaine Marshall and Andrea Valencia, cousins of the bride. They were dressed in floor length teal qiana frocks created with long puff sleeves. Wide ivory lace trimmed the sleeves, necklines and hemlines.

They carried ribboned baskets filled with peach and teal blue petals.

George Kershaw attended the groom as best man. Kevin Baugh, Ken Lathrop, the groom's brother, David Lathrop, a cousin of the groom, Roger Tracy, Bruce Elliot, and Dave Thomas, the groom's brother-in-law, completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

A reception was held immediately after the service in Engelbert Hall, Madison. The rehearsal dinner was hosted at the Round Table Restaurant, Collinsville.

After a wedding trip to Acapulco, the newlywed couple is now residing in Granite City.

Combat for women?

Wall Street Journal — President Carter has not yet formally decided whether to ask Congress for authority to register young women for the draft along with men.

But the debate over the prospect is already shaping up as a particularly juicy one, because over it hangs The Question that has enlivened and embittered so much of the dispute over women's issues.

The question of whether women in the armed forces are ultimately going to go into combat.

Certainly opponents of the women's movement have picked this as the crux of the matter.

Phyllis Schlafly, leading foe of the Equal Rights Amendment, explains the connection thus: "It's been the plan all along of the Equal Rights Amendment proponents to draft women and put them in combat."

Now that this underlying scheme has been exposed, Mrs. Schlafly says, she's starting a national petition drive to exempt women from the registration requirements that the Carter people are contemplating.

For ERA foes, the emergence of the draft issue looks like a real bonanza. It exposes the women's movement to public view in precisely the area where its positions offend the largest number of its fellow Americans.

On the other side of the issue, the advocates are scurrying around trying out all their different arguments about how this isn't really the issue at all.

Their first line of defense is to call "red herring": The issue of women in combat, it's being said, is irrelevant to the present policy discussion.

The question before us is simply whether women should register for national service, which as a matter of equity they most clearly should, it is said.

The people who say this are right. The question of registration is, strictly speaking, quite separable from the question of hand-to-hand fighting, and it's hard to see why young women should be exempt from the former.

And yet through some mysterious process the brain, in contemplating the idea of drafting the youth, does tend to gravitate toward the question of just what it is we're drafting them to do. So this dilemma of combat won't lie politely still.

Then there's another argument we're hearing, the defense from the left. You won't catch us making the women's movement a target for Mrs. Schlafly, this second line goes, by flinging women rhetorically into the trenches.

In fact we're going to refuse to put anyone at all into those trenches. Thus, some women's organizations have dealt with questions about women and the draft by opposing the draft altogether, they simply refuse to talk about what they'd do about the women's fate if the hand-to-hand draft nevertheless came to pass.

This tack has the advantage of ideological coherence, but in the present general climate isn't exactly the strategy for a popular and winning coalition.

So most of the women's and civil liberties groups seem to be facing the issue head-on. Yes, they would permit women to be eligible for combat subject gender-free skill standards.

But no, this is not just the "ERA-sends-women-to-fight" syndrome that Phyllis Schlafly claimed to see at work. First of all, they note, this whole draft possibility has arisen even without benefit of ERA.

Second, perhaps the chief function of present policies against women in combat is to hobble the careers of women in the military.

And most important, modern warfare has changed combat so much, and made the distinction between combatant and noncombatant so difficult, that you can no longer operationalize the old categories in any sensible way.

In short, they say, there's no reason to override the strong presumption in favor of equal treatment in the military regardless of gender.

And they're certainly on strong ground. There's no denying the problems that women face in trying to advance their military careers, and there's no doubt that neither the risk of physical harm nor the need for physical strength is easy to apportion over the various military of civilian roles to be played in a modern war.

So all we're left with is many people's deep feeling — irrational, the equal-treatment people would call it, or worse — that there is something particularly repulsive about the connection between women and violent disfigurement or death.

It's a position that's often been the excuse for unjust behavior, but it's also the sentiment that's come to underlie much of this culture's attachment to family, community, the distinction between soldiers and civilians, and other such islands of private decency that we've managed to carve out of the generally brutal nature of human affairs.

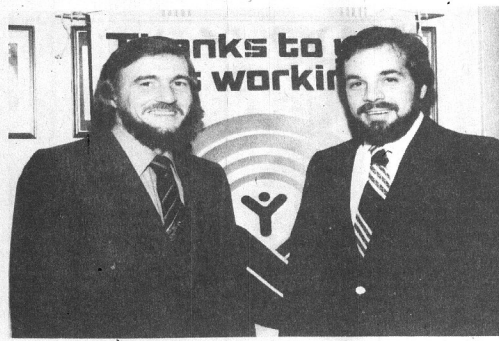

Why does it seem so beyond the capacity of women's movement advocates to admit the legitimacy of such a sentiment, or to make allowance for it in recommending public policy?

As long as those discussing women's policy issues refuse to make room for such considerations in their public arguments, the suspicion will persist that it's because at bottom they don't care very much about them.

And that's the suspicion, we have a pretty good idea, that's made the anti-ERA campaign such a notable success.

2 lenses' power differs

At least 75 percent of people wearing prescription eyeglasses need different lens power in each eye, the American Optometric Association says.

CO-CHAIRMEN. Charles Wilcox (left), Longshoreman's Local 1706, Archer-Daniels-Midland, and Paul F. Sodko, Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association, will be volunteer co-chairmen of the 1980 Tri-Cities Area United Way budget allocation committee. United Way President A. H. Froemling has announced, "Last year, both of these volunteers served in many United Way functions, including community campaign and budget allocations, and as UW employee group chairmen at their respective companies," Froemling said. "Their commitment to serve this community the united way is demonstrated by their past voluntary service."

$267,875 given by labor-management club at Granite City Steel

The Granite City Steel Labor-Management Torch Club has pledged contributions totaling $267,875 to support health, welfare and civic causes in 1980.

That is a record amount for one year, and an increase of about 17 percent over last year's total of $227,750. The budget was established at a meeting of the Torch Club board of governors.

The budget meeting was held later than normally, pending completion of a Torch Club membership drive. The drive, headed by Local 67's Ed Boyer, resulted in well over 100 new members and increases.

Carl Beczenas is chairman of the board, which is made up of hourly representatives of the local unions and representatives from the salaried ranks. Attending the meeting were 14 board members.

The budget includes a pledge of $210,000 to the Tri-Cities Area United Way, which is $20,000 more than was given to that organization in 1979 and is also a record.

There was an across-the-board increase of 10 percent to all other agencies supported by the club last year.

In addition, funds were pledged to five agencies not previously included—$4,000 each to the Illinois Center for Autistic Children, Hospice of Madison County, Diabetes Association of St. Louis, and Alpha Center, and $350 to St. Mary's Special School.

The Illinois Center for Autistic Children is located in Fairview Heights. It is a treatment and training center dedicated to children affected with autism, autistic-like syndromes, and severe behavior and communication disorders.

Carol Madison, the center's director, notes that autism is often mistaken for deafness or retardation.

Those needing assistance with tax returns are invited to visit the GC Township Center from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each Tuesday and Friday—beginning Feb. 5 and continuing through March 28.

Hours at the Madison Recreation Center are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each Thursday—Feb. 7 through March 27.

Qualified volunteers who have been trained in the tax field will be available to answer any questions and aid Quad-City residents with their tax returns, according to the announcement.

CHARGE DISMISSED

A misdemeanor charge of aggravated assault against Patricia C. Green, 32, of the 2600 block of Hodges Avenue, has been dismissed on request of the Madison County state's attorney's office. Authorities said the complaint against her, signed by a relative, had been withdrawn.

Legal steps by farmers on boycott

The Farm Bureau has taken legal action to stop Gulf and East coast longshoremen from refusing to load grain sold to the Soviet Union under trade agreements not affected by the longshoremen's embargo, according to Harold B. Steele, president of the Illinois Farm Bureau.

The American Farm Bureau Federation and the Texas and Kansas state Farm Bureaus have filed secondary boycott charges. A secondary boycott is an action against parties not directly involved in a labor dispute.

Steele said, "Longshoremen are not buyers, sellers or shippers. It is not their role to decide what they will load aboard ships for export and what they will not load."

"We committed to sell eight million tons of grain to the Soviet Union and Pres. Carter said we will honor those commitments even though he embargoed an additional 17 million tons the Russians had purchased but which had not been delivered. Then the Longshoremen, in effect, vetoed the president's action."

"I am disappointed that Mr. Carter said the administration would buy up the grain the longshoremen refused to load, even before the longshoremen announced their boycott."

Earlier this month, American Farm Bureau Federation delegates meeting in Phoenix called on Pres. Carter to take seven steps to soften the financial blow farmers are feeling because of the embargo.

Steele commented, "I am even more disappointed that the Carter administration has not announced specific plans to involve other segments of the American economy in the embargo."

"Illinois farmers are saying: If this embargo is really necessary, I'll do my part, but please, Mr. President, tell more than you have to date. If I know more, if I feel I'm not being singled out to bear most of the burden, then maybe the financial hurt won't hurt as much. I just want you to assure me that what you've done will hurt the Russians more than it will hurt me."

Gutenberg a latecomer?

The earliest tangible evidence of a book printed from movable type in Europe is two pages of a Donatus Latin grammar found in the binding of an account book dated 1451, five years before Johann Gutenberg's Mainz Bible.

Drops add up

If a hot-water faucet leaks, your money is going down the drain. One drop of water per second amounts to 860 gallons a year. With that you could run 59 loads of clothes through the washer.

Short and long-term plans bode well for GC Steel

The two-phase planning by National Steel Corporation is heartening news for its Granite City Steel Division and for this community and region.

Currently the third or fourth largest American steel firm, depending on the method of measurement, National Steel traditionally has been tops in efficiency and performance, and is continuing its leadership role.

For the short term, with a decreasing steel demand from automakers, National hopes to weather the recessionary storm by keeping a close eye on its operating costs.

For the long range, anticipating a worldwide shortage of steel in the mid- to late-1980s, the corporation is positioning itself for expanded production. Facilities here and at such places as the Detroit area and Wierton, W. Va., include some mature buildings but are being kept fully up-to-date and modern in every aspect of steelmaking technology.

Chairman George A. Stinson said in an annual report Tuesday that despite lower orders than a year ago, the 1980 first quarter is expected to be aided by sale of some of the firm's vast coal reserves to a General Electric Co. affiliate.

He added, "We have trimmed our inventories, as have most of our customers, assuring a rise in operating and shipping levels when markets begin to show improvement—we hope—in the second quarter." Although earnings dropped 44 percent in the fourth quarter, National Steel's net income for all of 1979 rose 13 percent.

Capital expenditures in 1980 are projected at $300 million, up $100 million, divided equally between modernization, environmental and maintenance programs.

Compared to the experience at some steelmakers, such as U. S. Steel, which has closed many plants, National Steel is attaining excellent results during a difficult economic period. And it is poised to compete effectively in the coming decade, not only with other domestic companies but with foreign steel producers.

Nation needs economic as well as military strength

Press-Record Washington Bureau — International events have pushed America's domestic problems off the front page. Probably no one is more aware of this than President Carter.

His low standing in opinion polls last summer reflected a decline of confidence in his ability to lead the country out of the mire of economic and energy problems which were then uppermost in the public mind.

His resurgence in the polls has reflected sympathy and support for his efforts to deal with the Iranian hostage crisis and the new Soviet threat in the Middle East. This has set the tone for the president's political posture going into his re-election campaign, and we see it in the presentation of his annual State of the Union message to Congress.

We cannot fault the president for his sense of priorities, even if enunciating a new "Carter Doctrine" in foreign policy amounts to playing his strong suit politically. The Soviet Union is mounting a challenge to the free world that is immediate and dangerous.

What the president intends to do about it does indeed overshadow the domestic concerns treated in the rest of his message.

Yet those concerns have not diminished at all in terms of their own threat to the welfare of our country and its future.

We remain confronted, as we were last summer, by the question of the Carter administration's domestic stewardship — its programs and policies relating to our economic security.

Looking at the State of the Union minus the distraction of a foreign crisis, we see the president's economists forecasting an inflation rate of 11 percent for 1980 — only scant relief from the 13 percent rate of 1979.

We see a forecast of unemployment rising from the current 5.9 percent to 7.5 percent by the end of the year.

We see another federal deficit estimated at $16.6 billion, which may be larger if the economic projections prove to be overly optimistic.

We hear the president saying his "most immediate legislative priority" is the passage of a windfall profits tax on the oil industry which may inhibit rather than stimulate the domestic oil production the country sorely needs.

We hear him say that "top budgetary priority" should go to reducing the deficit, while proposing an extension of the $7 billion a year revenue sharing program for states and cities — a sharing of "revenue" which the federal government obviously doesn't have.

The State of the Union is that American needs to shore up its own defenses and provide new military aid to its allies while managing economic and energy problems that are staggering enough in their own right.

The fact that the Russian bear is gobbling up Afghanistan and may be hungering for more is a new crisis for Mr. Carter, but not a substitute for those which seemed to be overwhelming his administration six months ago.

If a "Carter Doctrine" is to succeed in mobilizing resistance to the Soviet threat, the leadership must come from a country that has the economic strength as well as the military strength to lead.

The scramble to convert American dollars into gold makes one wonder if Mr. Carter's first problem is not still here at home, where there has been little progress in evolving federal policies that would restore the integrity of our own currency.

Percy opposes pay control, fuel rationing

He has sponsored legislation to reduce federal spending and control the government deficit, limit regulation of businesses, encourage energy conservation and review the need for various federal agencies.

On Monday night he cited as key challenges facing the U. S. inflation, energy, unbalanced budgets, wasteful government spending, incentives for saving, governmental interference with free enterprise, restoration of profits and the related ability to finance capital investments, and improvement of productivity.

He called for less regulation of Illinois and U. S. farms, and supported current preparations to build up the nation's military preparedness. He said that in many ways airline service has improved since deregulation was ordered.

Sen. Percy predicted that Asian lock and dam replacement will proceed on schedule despite a court appeal against it.

Explosion in fire station burns man

An electrician suffered minor burns and the main Granite City fire station was rendered inactive for a short time yesterday when an electrical control panel in the station at 23rd Street and Madison Avenue exploded about 4:20 p.m.

Thomas Meyer, Belleville, an electrician with ABC Electric, had been called to the station to repair the panel, which had been overheating. When Meyer pressed down on a nut supposed to be grounding the electrical panel, a high-voltage short-circuit caused the panel to explode in his face, officials said.

He was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was treated for burns to his right hand and the left side of his face and a superficial abrasion to his right hand. He was released after treatment and returned to the fire station to attempt to restore power.

Power was still out this morning to the first floor of the station, but a temporary connection provided power and heat to the upstairs within one-half hour of the accident.

Since all of the garage doors are operated electrically, the doors had to be opened by hand before the fire trucks and ambulance inside were reported back in service.

The control panel was destroyed and some windows in the station were scorched by the blast, a fire department spokesman said.

South bumps Cahokia

By DOUG IRVIN
for the Press-Record
CAHOKIA — Tuesday night, the Granite City South Lady Warriors improved their unmarred record by soundly defeating the Cahokia Comanches, 59-44. The junior varsity led by Natalie Buster with 13 points also beat the host, 51-39. Both levels of South's girls' basketball are 5-0.

Comanche Gloria Brown led the game with 20 points. South's Nita Graham tallied 16.

The game started fairly even. South led by two after the first quarter, by five at half, and by 15 at the end of the game. The Warriors held a 12-6 lead with 1:38 left in the premier period, but the Comanches battled back. Cahokia retook the lead in the second quarter, 19-18, but held it only briefly. Nita Graham pumped two through the hoop from 12 feet out to put the Warriors on top by five, 29-24, at the half.

Graham led in the scoring at the locker-room break with ten points.

South came out of the locker room, and after a brief wait for the game ball to be aired up, exploded with 10 straight points and allowed Cahokia none. Susan Jeffries was responsible for six of those early third period points. Cahokia's Brenda Elfrink scored her team's first bucket of the quarter, 3-28.

Less than a minute later came the game's most disputed call. Natalie Young, of Cahokia, shot from 13 feet out. Chris Boyd, South's standout, cleanly rejected the shot, but the referee called a foul. Only one of the two charity tosses were made.

South tallied four more to two of Cahokia and led 43-31 entering the final eight minutes. In that fourth quarter, the two teams matched buckets fairly even with South obtaining a three point advantage.

South's Susan Bell scored six points in closing period. She stole two Comanche passes and connected one with a lay-up. Thus South added a fifth win to their streak, 59-44.

Three Warrior cagers scored in double figures — Graham had 16, Boyd shot for 10, and Bell tallied 15. South outrebounded the taller Comanches, 48-35.

"We had a super game from our defense," said South's first year coach, Norm Grole. "Susan Bell and Nita Graham both had super games. Kathy Sikora did a fine job coming in off the bench for Boyd who got in foul trouble."

Unimpressed Devils smack Trojans, 78-71

By KEVIN ALLEN
of the Press-Record

ST. LOUIS — The surroundings were unfamiliar. The competition was unimpressed. And the Madison Trojans were obviously less than healthy.

All in all, these ingredients came together Tuesday night at O'Fallon Technical School in St. Louis to drop the Trojans for only the fourth time this season. The problem is, Madison lost its second consecutive game and suffered its third loss in two weeks. The Northwest Blue Devils beat the Trojans, 78-71.

The loss to Northwest made one thing even more apparent — to a large degree, Madison's fate rests heavily on the shoulders of Trojan Morris Hughes. As Hughes goes, so goes Madison.

It's no mere coincidence that Madison's recent troubles occurred while Hughes has been limited to only part-time on the court, and that was clear again Tuesday.

"We're not playing good defense," Madison coach Larry Graham said. "We usually can rely on our offense to carry us when that happens, but we haven't been scoring as much lately."

The Trojans' limited offense was even more ineffective when Hughes was not in the game. And for a good part of the game against Northwest, Hughes was on the bench hampered by a nagging leg injury.

That left the Blue Devils' 6-8 giant Tony Dye unmoored under the Trojans' basket, free to sweep up Madison's stray shots.

"We couldn't get in front of him," Graham said about Dye. "And he's tough enough when you do."

With Hughes in the game, though, Dye had to contend with Madison's biggest scoring threat. And although Dye blocked a couple of Hughes' shots, more often than not it was Hughes who got the better of the matchup.

But the Trojans' woes weren't limited to only the loss of Hughes' services. Madison is also without the services of guard Charles Claggett, whose offensive offerings and defensive abilities are sorely missed.

"Our ball handling is really bad," Graham said. "Our guards haven't played too badly, but without our starter we're hurting some."

Despite these problems though, the Trojans made the game more than a one-sided affair. For example, even with Hughes in the lineup, Madison had its problems early in the game. Dye blocked three consecutive shots late in the first quarter, which led to Blue Devil points.

Yet, by the end of the quarter, the Trojans found themselves down by only a point, 20-19. More than anything else it was a credit to Madison's press which caused eight Northwest turnovers in the period.

And in the second quarter, Madison, working the ball inside to Hughes, took the lead and held on for a 36-34 halftime lead.

Then, in the third quarter, after the teams traded the two-point lead back and forth, things changed. With about two minutes left in play in the period, Northwest's defense was sparked to life.

First it was Dye who stood all alone under the basket and received a pass from Blue Devil Brad Perry. Perry had stolen the ball in the backcourt and rifled it up to Dye. The big man slammed it home, and the Northwest faithful went wild.

The dunk was the spark. Two more consecutive Northwest steals resulted in baskets and the Blue Devils came from a two point deficit to a 58-53 lead with a minute left in the quarter.

Madison, though, scored twice before the buzzer and cut the margin to 58-57 going into the final period. "Our press was just about non-existent compared to what it usually is," Graham said. His comment was probably provoked by what happened in the fourth quarter. Gradually, from about the end of the half, the momentum had shifted in favor of Northwest.

In the final period, the Blue Devils put the game out of reach.

Using a fast-break scoring attack, Northwest beat the press down the court occasionally, and when it didn't, the Blue Devils were able to penetrate the Madison defense.

The Blue Devils pulled to a four-point lead after about four minutes, then won the game when they were able to convert free throw chances that resulted in desperate Madison fouls.

"We should've been ahead by about 10 points the whole game," Graham said. "We looked a lot of times like we were just about to put them away, but I guess we kind of let them off the hook."

Edwardsville pulls away

EDWARDSVILLE — Granite City North's girls basketball team played a close, hard-fought game here Tuesday night against Edwardsville — except for a three minute span in the fourth quarter.

And that three minute span cost them the ball game, 45-38 in the Gateway East Conference contest.

North saw some light at the end of the tunnel against Edwardsville. In fact,

Steele's coach Harry Cook felt his team could beat Edwardsville. "We can play with them," he said. "In fact, there's a good chance we'll beat them when we play them down at our place."

The Steelettes trailed Edwardsville by only one point entering the fourth quarter, but that three-minute lapse put them down by 10 points midway through the period. "You can't win coming back from ten down like that," said Cook. "They (Edwardsville) forced about five or six turnovers on them, they capitalized on them."

North fought back, but couldn't catch the Tigers.

Even though it was turnovers that killed hopes of a North victory, Cook said he was pleased with the way his team cut down on mistakes. "We had something like 22 against Cahokia," he said. "This time, we had just 16."

But turnovers weren't the only thing that hurt North, according to Cook. "We've got to shoot the ball more," he said. "We've got to take about 50 shots a game to win."

North, South square off in 'one bout dual'

SOUTH'S DRUE CLEMENT

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

GRANITE CITY — When Granite City North and South square off here tonight (6:30 p.m.) for underclassmen matches in a high school wrestling dual meet, it will draw attention from all over the area. You see, these are not just two normal wrestling teams getting together.

They're from GRANITE CITY.

The North-South wrestling meet has received the same attention in recent years as the prep soccer game between the two, even though that hasn't been the case the last two years, in which South has claimed easy victories.

Granite City was once known as the wrestling capital of Illinois. It was in this city that the first high school wrestling meet was held, back in 1934, between Granite High and Wood River. Granite lost that one 25-30, but has been beating Illinois and Missouri schools ever since.

This season has been no exception. Both Granite South and North have but one blemish on their records — to the same team, Belleville West. North's Steelers lost early in the season to West 30-20, while South fell to the Maroons three weeks ago 24-19.

The two coaches involved in tonight's struggle are familiar to wrestling fans and coaches all over the Midwest — and to each other.

Granite City North coach Walt Whitaker is highly respected because of the work he has accomplished at North, and before that as an assistant at South and as head coach at Cahokia.

Whitaker's head coach at South was current Warrior coach Bill "Red" Schmitt. In fact, Schmitt was Whitaker's head coach at GCHS when Walt was a prepster. "I guess just about everything I know about wrestling comes from Smitty," said Whitaker. "I imagine he goes things pretty well here like he did when I was there."

Schmitt's South team comes into tonight's dual limping. Ranked as the number four team in Illinois before the season, South has lost two regulars and could lose two more before the meet tonight. Already gone are Rich Presswood at 105 pounds (out with a dislocated elbow suffered at Pekin and 132 pounder Phil Beljanski, who broke his nose for the umpteenth time in the Belleville West match. Beljanski had an 18-3 record.

"Losing an 180 wrestler and having to replace him is tough," said Schmitt. "You're giving away a lot."

Replacing Beljanski will be either Rodney Lupardus, the regular 126-pounder, or Mike Niebur, another 126-pounder.

The two others who may be lost are Scott Polson, the regular 167-pounder, or Jon Frangoulis, his replacement the past four dual meets.

Polson has been out with a recurring back injury and Frangoulis could be coming down with bronchial pneumonia.

Frangoulis and Polson had a 32-1 record between them," said Schmitt. "That hurts." North hopes to build up a sizable lead in the lighter weights, because after they have been considered to be tougher than South. Leading the way will be Gerald Miller and Kevin Shemwell for the Steelers. "We'll have to get some points early," said Whitaker. "I hope we can do some good against their lower weights, because after we get into the middle weights, we could have some problems."

Schmitt agrees with

Whitaker. "After the first five matches, they could be 5-0," he said. "I've got to beat them, it's gonna have to be in the middle weights."

Schmitt said that the entire match could hinge on one key bout — Garland versus Miller at 112. Greg Garland and Miller gave wrestling fans one to remember at the annual South Holiday Tournament in December when Garland, who led by a sizable margin late in the match, was pinned by Miller. "That one's a toss-up," said Schmitt. "But it could determine how the whole thing turns out."

Another key matchup could be the final bout of the night, the heavyweight tangle between North's Tim Wyrostek and South's Bruce Monahan. Wyrostek defeated Monahan at the South Tournament.

If the way North wrestlers did against South's in that tournament are any indication, the Steelers could very well be in line to reverse the trend that has seen them dominated by South the last two years. At the tourney, North wrestlers met South six times and won four.

North will be coming off a

Rockets soar to top of poll

GRANITE CITY — The Okawville Rockets, after tying for the championship of the Benton Round Robin Tournament last week, received their first place votes to Lovejoy's two and barely took over first place for the first time this season in the Press-Record-Collinsville Herald Class A Basketball poll.

The Rockets, after beating Edwardsville and Olney, two tough Class AA schools at Benton, threw a scare into highly-ranked Cairo and also lost to Pinckneyville in the tournament.

Meanwhile, Lovejoy was whipping the likes of St. Henry Prep of Belleville, not quite the same caliber of competition the Rockets faced the past week.

Madison, who had been the leader for most of the season, slipped another notch this week to third in the area after losing at Lebanon 86-82.

The Trojans are tied for third with that very same Lebanon team that beat them.

In fifth place this week in Westlin, followed by Breese Mater Dei, which fought Cahokia tough in the semifinals and eventually captured third place in the Salem Invitational Tournament.

Venice and East St. Louis Assumption are tied for seventh place this week. Bringing up the last two positions are Hillsboro, which took third place honors at Belleville East's Tournament and New Athens.

In the Class AA poll, Alton continues to lead the pack, getting seven of eight first place votes cast. Behind the Redbirds is East St. Louis Lincoln, which got the other first place vote. Collinsville, which whipped Bethalto at home Friday and then lost 98-78 at Quincy Saturday, is in third, a surprising 18 points ahead of Cahokia.

Surprising because of Cahokia's upset victory over (statue) eighth-ranked Effingham in the championship game of the Salem Tournament.

Next in line are East St. Louis, Edwardsville, Highland, Mascoutah and O'Fallon.

Among those also receiving votes was Granite City South.

Devils stumble in loss

By PETE HAYES
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

VENICE — Everyone has a limit. Even the most patient people in the world. Apparent Venice basketball coach Ken Perkins reached his limit sometime Tuesday night

"They (Venice) came in here thinking simple. They'd won the Sparta Tournament (last week), that they could just beat anybody without trying," said Perkins. "But I'll tell you, beating Sparta and Red Bud don't make you world-beaters."

"In high school basketball, you have to come to play every day, or you'll get burned."

Burned is exactly what happened to Venice against O'Fallon Tech. The visiting Hornets jumped out to an early lead and never looked back. They led 12-0 at the end of the first quarter and extended it to 29-20 at halftime.

Still, Venice was very much in the game. In fact, all the Red Devils had to do was shoot anything nominal from the field to be ahead. They were getting the shots. They weren't falling.

"Our shooting stunk," said Perkins. "In fact, we just didn't want to win it. O'Fallon did."

"I don't think we thought O'Fallon Tech would be any good. I mean, we're mighty Venice!"

Perkins spoke to his team for nearly 20 minutes after the game. "We talked about pride and desire and playing with intensity," said Perkins. "I also told them that if they wanted to for Venice, they'd have to play hard every game, not just the games they wanted to win."

Ironically, the Red Devils still had a chance to come back and win the game in the fourth quarter.

Trailing 51-34 going at the end of the third period, Venice started connecting from the outside, after fruitlessly trying to pass inside to forward Donald Gardner for three quarters. The Devils managed to narrow the gap to eight points once, at 61-53, but could pull no closer.

The main sparkplug in the Venice comeback was 6'11" forward Archie Gardner. He made six baskets from virtually the same spot 20 feet away in the final moments and finished the game with 23 points. "If he'd have hit that the whole game, he'd have scored 50 points," mused Perkins.

The unfortunate thing for Venice during the comeback attempt was that it never really got started. For every basket Venice would work hard for, it seemed as if O'Fallon would counter with an easy layup at the other end.

"We didn't get back real well on defense," said Perkins. "But a lot of that comes from their (O'Fallon's) height advantage."

"All they had to do was have one man back waiting for the out-let pass. O'Fallon's big men would get the ball, pass it out, and they'd have a layup."

Perkins said he didn't become upset with his team until the second half. "The first half we played disciplined, but just couldn't hit. The second half, we showed just how poor we can play," he said. "We didn't show any guts. None at all."

The loss lowered Venice's record to 1-14. The Devils will have some time to lick their wounds and get ready for their next game. They travel to Waterloo next Tuesday (Feb. 5) to play Gibault High.

No change in wrestling poll

GRANITE CITY — Belleville West, which remained undefeated, continues to lead the Press-Record Prep Wrestling Poll, a position the Maroons have held since they defeated Granite City South three weeks ago and took it over from the Warriors.

South remains a unanimous choice for second and Granite City North is the coaches' pick for third. "That could all change after Thursday," said South coach Bill "Red" Schmitt. What Schmitt referred to was the

8. Mascoutah	12
9. Lincoln	11

Others receiving votes were Edwardsville and Collinsville.

Next in line are Belleville East, Mascoutah and East St. Louis Lincoln. A single point separates each of the three from the next-closest team.

East St. Louis Senior brings up the tenth spot in the poll, two points behind cross-town rival Lincoln. Points are awarded on a descending basis. That is, a team gets 10 points for each first place vote it receives, nine for each second, eight for each third, etc.

Coaches participating in the poll are Schmitt, Walt Whitaker of Granite City North, John Wehmeier of Belleville West, Russ Baum of Cahokia and Larry Millazo of Roxana.

German exchange student is leaving Effingham foes babbling to themselves

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor

EFFINGHAM — This small (11,000) community in Southeastern Illinois has become the subject of a lot of publicity lately. More notice, in fact, than when it was named as the site of the junction of two Interstate highways several years ago. More than when Aunt Bessie's cow got stuck in the silo. You see, Effingham has a good high school basketball team this year. Make that a REAL good team.

So what else is new, you ask? Effingham's St. Anthony has sent teams to the State Finals many times. The news is that the best team in town is at the public school.

Effingham, which advanced to Class AA Super-Sectional play last season only to be ousted by a taller East St. Louis team, definitely won't have that problem this season. The Flaming Hearts (Effingham is known as the "HEART-land of America"), you see, have much of their team back this season intact from the Sweet Sixteen group. There's all-state guard Mitch

Arnold and super-talented Dale Grupe. "They're both two of the best players in that state," said Effingham coach Jim Maxedon. "And they're a full inch

'We're not a one-man team'

—Effingham coach Jim Maxedon taller than they were last season."

Oh yeah, there's been an addition to the team—a 7'2" German foreign exchange student. His name's Uwe 'Blab' (pronounced Oo-vay Blob). And he's only a junior.

Blab found his way from Germany to Effingham because of an Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) trip the Hearts took to his country last summer.

While playing in Munich, Blab and his family approached the group from Effingham, expressing an interest going to the United States to learn more about basketball.

Well, one thing led to another and Blab enrolled at Effingham High School some weeks later, under the sponsorship of the Effingham Rotary Club exchange student program.

The addition of a 7'2" center in an area where the tallest players are usually 6'5" has made Effingham virtually untouchable. In fact, the Hearts' closest game was 18 points with the scrubs playing most of the second half. That is, until last Saturday night when they were upset by Cahokia 65-64 in the championship game of the Salem Tournament.

The loss, however, just dropped the Hearts from

'It should be us and E. St. Louis'

—Maxedon

seventh to eighth in the Associated Press state-wide poll.

How has all the attention Blab has received affected him? "He's taken it very well," said Maxedon. "I don't think he realized when he got here what a stir it'd cause."

"He's just a normal 17 year old boy. He's still adjusting to the way basketball is played here."

But according to Maxedon, Blab's got more going for him than just size. "He's a very good player in his own right," he said. "He's a good shooter. He knows how to position himself. He's a good rebounder."

One would hope to choke that at 7'2", the boy's a good rebounder. Maxedon said that reaction from the townspeople and surrounding communities has been mixed. "There have been some jealousies arise because of it," he said. "But I think most of the coaches in the area are behind us. They hope we can bring a state championship back to Southern Illinois, especially this area."

One thing the Effingham coach likes to emphasize is his TEAM, not just Blab. "We were a very good team before he came," he said. "He just makes us that much better."

"I'll tell you, if you ever want to see a team work together as a team, you've got to see us play. When college coaches see us, that's the thing they talk about the most."

Maxedon, who inherited the Effingham job in 1968 from present Granite City South coach Don Deterding, is looking for his second trip to Champaign. His first year there, the Hearts advanced to the quarterfinals before losing to Galesburg.

It was when his current team was a bunch of mop-headed seventh graders that Maxedon knew it was something special. "They've been playing together since then, most of them," he said. "That's one reason they perform so well as a team. They know what each other will do in any situation."

Maxedon said should his team advance to the Carbondale Super-Sectional in March, he fully expects to meet East St. Louis again. "I know East St. Louis is a tough and are playing real well," he said. "But when state tournament time rolls around, it'll be East St. Louis. They're big and strong and mean."

"Of course, we'll scout all of 'em."

And they'll be watching you too, coach.

National Steel 1979 earnings climb due to strong 2nd, 3rd quarters

National Steel Corporation earned $126.5 million or $6.56 per share in 1979, a 13 percent increase over the year earlier's $112.4 million or $5.85 per share.

Granite City Steel is a division of National Steel. Fourth quarter 1979 earnings were $21.3 million or $1.11 per share, down 44 percent from 1978's fourth quarter earnings of $38.0 million or $1.98 per share.

Net sales and other income for the year increased 14 percent to $4.3 billion, compared with $3.8 billion in 1978. Fourth quarter sales and other income totaled $1.0 billion in 1979 and 1978.

The report was given Tuesday in Pittsburgh by Chairman George A. Stinson.

"Earnings increased for the second consecutive year despite a slow start in the first quarter resulting from severe winter weather, strikes by steel haulers, and lower fourth-quarter demand from the automotive market."

"Operations set numerous production records and made good progress in both efficiency and cost improvement during 1979," said Stinson.

"In addition, our continuing strategy to shift a larger percentage of shipments to capital goods markets helped minimize the lower demand from consumer durable markets.

"Steel orders and bookings for the first quarter of 1980 are below 1979 first quarter levels as a result of the recessionary climate affecting most of the American business," Stinson added.

"However, orders are strong for tin mill products, oil country goods, and products for railroads.

"We have trimmed our inventories, as have most of our customers, thereby assuring a rise in operating and shipping levels when markets begin to show improvement, hopefully in the second quarter."

The agreement reached with Utah International, Inc., an affiliate of General Electric Company, for the sale of 60,000 acres of high-quality utility coal, is subject to the approval of Utah's board of directors and fulfillment of certain other routine conditions.

"If both requirements are accomplished, this sale could have a significant favorable impact on National Steel's earnings in the first quarter of 1980," Stinson said.

National Steel's board of directors has authorized over $300 million for capital expenditures in 1980, an increase from 1979 levels.

Modernization, environmental and maintenance programs will comprise approximately equal portions of these expenditures.

Included in the modernization program are installation of a new continuous caster and adaptation of two basic oxygen furnaces to the top-and-bottom-blown KMS-type process at Granite City Steel and conversion of two basic oxygen furnaces at Great Lakes Steel to the KMS process.

Primary steel production in 1979 totaled 10.7 million tons, compared to 10.3 million tons in 1978. For the fourth quarter, production totaled 2.3 million tons vs. 2.8 million tons in the previous year's quarter.

Shipments reached 8.3 million tons in 1979 vs. 8.2 million tons in 1978. Fourth quarter shipments totaled 1.8 million tons compared to 1.1 million tons in the comparable 1978 quarter.

How to find bus matching funds?

The Illinois legislature has put the Bi-State Development Agency on notice that the Illinois portion of its territory must produce a million dollars of local matching funds annually to retain the $1.1 million state subsidy that keeps bus service going on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River.

Charles Houghton, executive director of Bi-State, outlined the problem to the Metro-East Chamber of Commerce Association (MECCA) at the Round Table Restaurant in Collinsville Monday night.

He asked the members as leaders in their communities to increase public awareness of the problem and "develop consensus" on the best way to raise the million dollars a year.

Bi-State's Illinois territory is Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties.

Houghton said it costs about $1.25 per passenger to provide bus service; farebox revenue at 25 cents a ride obviously falls far short.

Governmental subsidies have made up the difference. They come from St. Louis, St. Louis County, the state of Missouri and the state of Illinois.

Illinois has furnished 2-32 of area sales taxes per year. Senator Sam Vadalabene has encountered increasing resistance from legislators from Cook and the "collar counties," Decatur and other areas which have state subsidized bus systems. All the others provide local matching funds.

In 1979, the legislature increased the subsidy from 2-32 of sales tax revenue in the three counties to 3-32. But legislative leaders made it clear they would cut this unless the area provided local matching funds.

Houghton said, "This is ironic, because the 3-32 comes from the area." The legislators don't regard it as matching, because if they didn't apply it to Bi-State, it would stay in the state treasury, not local coffers.

Houghton said in reference to funding, "I need your help." He said he had talked to the Southern Illinois Council of Mayors and to the county board chairmen. He said they are aware of the problems but not agreed on where the money is to come from.

Bi-State's view is that "local tax funds being added to the Bi-State subsidy will be determined by the area's political leadership." To help the leadership approach the problem, Bi-State analyzed four possible sources of local matching funds.

A $3 surcharge on license fees for all vehicles licensed in the three counties would produce $1,215,000 a year. The problem with this would be that various cities already charge varying amounts of "wheel tax" ($3 in Granite City, $5 in Collinsville, $25 in East St. Louis).

An additional tax on cigarettes sold in the three counties of two cents a pack might produce about $1,500,000, but could be hard to administer, leaving a segment of the population to pay for the rest.

A five percent surcharge on parimutuel betting would bring in $5,186,000. This has two problems. Like a cigarette tax, it leaves part of the people to pay for the rest. The Fairmount Park management is against it, since it could cut wagering.

Houghton said, "Gene Brombolich (mayor of Collinsville) says it is not fair to make one community pay for the rest." Such a tax might cut Collinsville's city revenue from the track.

A 0.5 percent local sales tax would bring in over $1,000,000.

In Illinois in the period ended June 30, 1979, 8,840,555 passengers were carried 5,367,813 miles. That cost $11,138,671.

Only 18 percent was collected at the farebox — $1,996,870. Six of the routes carried most of the Illinois passengers, he said.

Houghton said reorganization of the development agency, with Bill Wilson as general manager of transit, has brought marked improvement in maintenance and cleanliness of buses.

Beefed-up security program, using off-duty policemen, have made buses safer for riders.

Bi-State said the $25 bus stop shelters are making bus service "visible" for the first time. He added that it is his goal to provide bus schedules the riders can understand, and make them widely available.

Bi-State was formed in 1962 and helped establish the river dock at Granite City. In 1962, it contracted to build the passenger transporter in the Arch. The bus was highly successful, though the federal government contract allows Bi-State to keep only $35,000 of the $350,000 annual profit.

In 1963, the agency bought up all the bus companies serving the area and established Bi-State Transit.

In 1965, it bought Parks Bi-

State Airport. This, too, is profitable.

It is also the port coordinator for the area, and has a program to develop profitable incineration of trash.

Houghton said the area's landfills will be full in a few years. He said an incinerator generating steam for industry could cost $50 million.

Bi-State Transit was profitable until about 1970, when the flight to the suburbs put more and more people in automobiles, the gathering was told.

To deal with its problems, the Bi-State board has proposed increasing the basic bus fare from 25 cents to 50 cents effective July 1, 1980, as well as seeking steps to retain the state subsidy.

Houghton said the price and sometime scarcity of gasoline has sharply increased ridership. There were 40 million riders in 1970, he said, and 80 million in 1979.

Bi-State points out that public transportation everywhere is subsidized to maintain a satisfactory level of service at prices within reach of the riders, many of whom are poor. About 45 percent of the Illinois residents who ride Bi-State earn less than $6,500 a year.

The same inflation which has pushed automobile owners onto buses has also boosted Bi-State costs. Diesel fuel has gone from 40 cents to 80 cents a gallon since July 1, 1979.

And the agency's labor contracts have cost-of-living clauses in them which automatically provide raises.

Four windows were broken and a pocket calculator was stolen during a burglary at Logan School, 2400 W. 25th St., discovered on Monday.

The calculator, removed from a teacher's desk, is the only thing known missing.

She enlisted in the Air Force on Nov. 29.

Bible study at Temple Baptist

Temple Baptist Church, 1916 Harris St., Madison, will observe a week of Bible study, starting Sunday at 10:40 a.m., the Rev. Jack L. Gouy, pastor, announced today.

The study program, concentrating of the Book of Revelations, will continue each evening at 7 o'clock through Friday, Feb. 8. Leading the study will be the Rev. W. L. Showers, a minister for over 50 years who has read the Bible in its entirety more than 150 times.

"The public is invited to participate," Rev. Gouy said.

Lincoln observances began a century ago

Illinois State Historical Society, Lincoln, Washington, Grant, St. Valentine and oleomargarine supplies the principal subjects for Illinois newspaper editors during February 1880.

There were also the usual number of murders, robberies, horse and train accidents, and reform meetings, according to a random check of newspaper files for the month in the Illinois State Historical Library, Springfield.

Previously, Washington's birthday had been the occasion for the month's big celebrations: parades, speeches, banquets and balls. But Feb. 22, 1880, fell on Sunday, creating chaos with the annual programs. Springfield's Illinois State Journal set the tone of the day with the remark that "Washington had a very quiet birthday yesterday."

The fact that it was a Sunday, however, gave the ministers of more than a half-dozen Chicago area churches a subject for their sermons. Typical of the titles was that of the minister of the Third Unitarian Church: "Lessons from the Life and Character of George Washington."

Sunday did not completely stop the celebrating but scattered it. Public buildings were decorated with flags and bunting. Offices, banks, the Board of Trade, and some businesses were closed on Monday.

In Springfield, "the Governor's Guard made their regular annual parade" on Sunday. In Quincy, the militia celebrated by going to church in a body. In Peoria, there were a military parade and ball on Monday.

In Chicago, the Evening Journal noted that "among the antiquated curiosities of the old folks' concert" in Englewood "was a chair said to have been occupied by General George Washington on a visit" to Connecticut during the Revolution.

It asked, "Can't our enterprising suburb exhibit George's historic little hatchet?"

In Springfield, "The Leland Hotel register was appropriately adorned with a hatchet."

On Lincoln's birthday, which had not been observed before, nine of Springfield's leading citizens (six with military titles from captain to general) met in the "Memorial Hall of the Lincoln Monument" (now the Lincoln Tomb) and formed "the Lincoln Guard of Honor."

Among the purposes of the organization were "to negotiate for the purchase" of the Lincoln Home, keep it in repair and open to the public, and "to conduct memorial services on appropriate occasions, such as the anniversaries of his birth, death, emancipation day, decoration day or any other important events connected with life," and "to collect and preserve relics of him."

During February 1880, former President Ulysses S. Grant was visiting Cuba but his political backers were busy promoting him for a third term nomination. The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in a Lincoln birthday celebration in New York, took occasion to make a highly laudatory speech endorsing Grant "as perhaps the most remarkable man that our age has produced in America."

Grant's Illinois friends — including Gen. John A. Logan and Elihu B. Washburne — were equally enthusiastic. The Republican nomination and the election of 1880, however, went to James A. Garfield — a compromise candidate.

St. Valentine's Day, 1880 — a leap year — resulted in more "mail matter" than ever for the Chicago post office. But school children were disappointed because the date fell on Saturday, when there was no school or "letter-box" in each room for their amusement.

The first note of the Midwest dairymen's attack on the manufacture of oleomargarine (now shortened to margarine) appeared in the state's February 1880 papers. At a meeting of the Northwestern Dairymen's Association held at Harvard (McHenry County) on Feb. 11, resolutions were adopted stating that "the use of refuse and discarded fats in (margarine) manufacture is abhorrent to the sense of every right-minded man, is injurious to health and should be prevented by law."

Copies of the resolution were sent to practically every public official in federal and state government.

Income tax, pension data being matched

A cooperative effort between the Internal Revenue Service and the Social Security Administration, called Combined Annual Wage
 Reporting, will allow the IRS to match nearly all wage and pension information on documents against income reported on 1978 individual income tax returns, the IRS District Office reports.

On Jan. 1, 1979, employers began filing annually Form
 W-2, "Wage and Tax
 Statement," and Form W-2P
 (for pensions) with the SSA.
 SSA transfers this information from the forms to magnetic computer tape and shares it with the IRS.

Prior to Combined Annual Wage Reporting, the IRS received much of this information on paper documents, which are more difficult and expensive to match. For example, it costs the IRS about $200 to process 100,000 documents furnished on magnetic media, while processing the same number of paper documents costs $26,000.

The IRS uses document matching to determine whether taxpayers have properly reported income on their tax returns.

Besides identifying taxpayers who have not filed a return, or who have not reported the income shown on the information return, the IRS says its program also identifies those who overpaid taxes and are unaware that they are entitled to refunds.

Investigation into death is ended

Madison County sheriff's deputies have closed their investigation into the death of Laurence F. Durbin, 20, Highland, who fell from the Interstate 270 bridge onto Route 203 Saturday afternoon.

A witness to the incident contacted deputies Monday afternoon.

The witness said he did not notify authorities, because he thought the man had jumped to a walkway or bridge support and did not know he had fallen to the roadway below.

Based on the information given by the witness, we have ruled out the possibility he may have been hit by a truck or vehicle and have closed our investigation," according to Lt. Robert Hertz, chief of detectives.

He said the cause of death will be reviewed after laboratory tests from the autopsy are available.

450 honor State Rep. Sam Wolf at fund-raising dance

Photos and text by Gary Schneider

PEOPLE

Democratic officials turned out by the dozens to honor State Rep. Sam Wolf at Granite City at a fund-raising dance early this week in the Collinsville Park Ballroom.

About 450 incumbents, candidates, campaign officials and friends were on hand, even though Wolf is unopposed for re-election.

At the bottom right, Comptroller Burris gives the victory sign and predicts sweeping Democratic victories throughout the state in 1980. On the stage behind Burris is Wilbur R.L. Trimpe, president of Lewis & Clark Community College, who served as master-of-ceremonies for the dance.

New generals include 3 former officers at Scott

President Jimmy Carter has nominated six Military Airlift Command officers for promotion to the rank of Air Force brigadier general. Among those selected are three colonels who recently held key posts at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville.

Col. Duane H. Erickson, vice-commander of the 375th Aeromedical Airlift Wing at the base from September 1976 to February 1978. He now commands MAC's 317th Tactical Airlift Wing and the Air Force Airlift Center at Pope Air Force Base, N.C.

Col. Maurice C. Padden was base commander at Scott from February 1976 until May 1978, when he left for his present assignment as commander of MAC's 443rd Military Airlift Wing at Altus Air Force Base, Okla. Currently the Military Airlift Travis commander at Travis Air Force Base, Calif., Col. William E. Overacker, served as assistant deputy chief of staff for operations at MAC Headquarters here from July 1977 to March 1979.

Also selected were Col. Duane H. Cassidy, commander of MAC's 63rd Military Airlift Wing at Norton Air Force Base, Calif., Col. Archer L. Durham, who commands MAC's 436th Military Airlift Wing at Dover Air Force Base, Del., and Col. Robert D. Springer, commander of MAC's 435th Tactical Airlift at Rhein-Main Air Base, Germany.

A 1954 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., Erickson has a command pilot rating and more than 7,000 flying hours. His military awards include the Legion of Merit with three oak leaf clusters, Meritorious Service Medal with one oak leaf cluster and Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters.

An oak leaf cluster is symbolic of second and subsequent awards of a decoration. Padden holds a master navigator rating. He received his commission in February 1953 after cadet training for navigators. He holds the Bronze Star Medal, Meritorious Service Medal, and Air Force Commendation Medal with one oak leaf cluster.

Overacker was commissioned in 1955 through the ROTC program. With a command pilot rating and more than 6,000 flying hours, he holds the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star Medal, Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters and Air Force Commendation Medal with two oak leaf clusters.

The promotion nominations are subject to U.S. Senate approval.

Tax aide program begins Feb. 5

The AARP tax-aide program will again this year be of service to area seniors. An Internal Revenue service tax representative held concentrated series of classes for the local volunteers last week in the multi-purpose center of the YMCA.

Volunteers from Collinsville, Edwardsville and the Quad-Cities attended sessions to update their knowledge of income tax. Another session was held in the Belleville Area for volunteers there.

Assistance will be given in the following sites: Granite City Township Senior Citizens Center, each Tuesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. starting Feb. 5; Madison Recreation Center each Thursday 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. starting Feb. 7; Collinsville Township Building Each Wednesday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. starting Feb. 6.

Edwardsville hours will be posted in the Senior Center there, it was noted.

This is the fifth year for the program locally. Elma M. Hoover is the over-all coordinator for Madison and St. Clair Counties, and J. Ben Jaimet will coordinate the Granite City area.

Seniors will be assisted on a first come basis and are asked to bring a copy of their last years return, federal and state forms, notices from employers, pension plans, and other pertinent materials.

Record earnings by railway

Norfolk and Western Railway has reported record earnings for the fourth quarter and full year of 1979. The railroad, based in Roanoke, Va., had fourth quarter net income of $57.1 million, or $1.83 a primary common share, up 35 percent over year-earlier income of $36.8 million, or $1.18 a primary common share, before an extraordinary credit.

The extraordinary credit of $9.3 million, or $1.90 a primary common share, brought 1979 fourth quarter net income to $96.1 million, or $3.26 a primary common share. The previous income record for the fourth quarter, set in 1976, was $46.6 million, or $1.49 a share.

For the full year, earnings rose 88 percent to $198.6 million, or $6.36 a primary common share, compared with year-earlier income of $105.9 million, or $3.39 a primary share, before the extraordinary credit. After the extraordinary credit, earnings were $165.2 million, or $5.29 a share, in 1978.

The previous record for a full year's net income before extraordinary items was $108.9 million, or $4.21 a share, set in 1976. "These record results are primarily due to strong coal traffic levels throughout the year, as well as good levels of merchandise traffic, except in motor vehicles," said John P. Fishwick, NW president and chief executive officer. "Our automotive business slumped badly, especially in the fourth quarter."

automotive business to be depressed for at least the first half of 1980. Our coal traffic continues strong, and we expect it to equal 1978's level. The extent to which our other business will decline will depend on the extent and depth of the recession and the pace of inflation, which may be fueled by additional defense spending," Fishwick said.

Norfolk and Western increased its quarterly cash dividend and also announced an agreement to buy a company owning coal lands in eastern Kentucky for $20 million.

The railroad raised the quarterly cash dividend on its common stock to 55 cents a share, a 14.6 percent increase from the prior rate of 48 cents a share quarterly. The new dividend will be paid March 10 to stockholders of record Feb. 1.

It will be the 300th consecutive regular payment by NW, dating back to 1901, when the company's first dividend was declared. Dividends were paid semi-annually through 1909 and quarterly thereafter.

NW agreed to purchase Kentenia Corp., a privately held company headquartered in Boston, which owns or has mineral rights for about 31,000 acres of coal lands in Harlan and Bell counties, Kentucky. The holdings include an estimated 118 million tons of coal reserves, as well as some timber, oil and gas.

Alcohol no substitute is special's theme

Scott Baio is a family man. That is, the young television and film actor believes in a close and loving family relationship such as he shares with his mother and father, Rose and Mario, and his older brother and sister, Steven and Stephanie, who are twins.

Baio's homelife is the antithesis of the role he portrays as teen-age alcoholic Buff Saunders in "The Boy Who Drank Too Much," a story about friendship and loyalty played against the stark facts of teen-age alcoholism, to be broadcast Wednesday, Feb. 6, on CBS.

Lance Kerwin, Ed Lauter and Maricela Costello also star, and Don Murray is the special guest-star in the drama, sponsored by the Xerox Corporation.

Baio portrays a 16-year-old high school ice-hockey stand-out who lives an isolated existence with his alcoholic father. Lacking a strong self-image fostered by feelings of self-consciousness and his father's failure to provide guidance, the teen-age finds solace in alcohol. He begins to drink so heavily that his very life is threatened.

Explained Baio: "Buff's father, who is played by Don Murray, is an alcoholic, too. They've moved around a lot, and Buff has a hard time making friends. There isn't anyone he can talk to about his problems. Alcohol is a substitute for what he's lacking."

Baio, who portrayed Chachi on the series "Happy Days" and starred in the feature film "Skatetown, U.S.A.," considers himself fortunate because he doesn't need substitutes.

"My family gave me a wonderful set of values and a lot of love," he said, adding, "I have some problems and can't work them out for myself. I talk them over with my family."

ly. Somebody is always around."

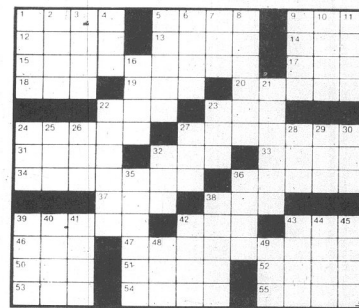

Baio is originally from New York. For a variety of reasons, including his career, the family voted on the plan, then decided to move to Los Angeles.

"We all sat down and discussed the pros and cons," recalled Baio. "Every family member had his say. We took a vote, and here we are. I don't think Buff ever shared in anything like that."

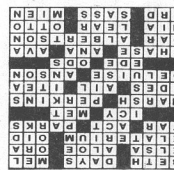

In preparation for his role as a teen-age alcoholic, Baio, who was a high school honor student, recalled earlier years in New York. "I remember young guys hanging out on street corners, drunk and appearing to have a good time. I was much younger then, and used to watch them and laugh."

Those recollections proved valuable for the bright, 18-year-old actor. "While preparing for this role," he said, "I thought about how those guys acted before, and then after, they became drunk — only this time I didn't laugh."

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22) — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Get plenty of rest and avoid quarrelsome people. Financial problems could worsen if you fall for a "get-rich-quick" scheme. Concentrate on work and you can get cooperation. The home front may be less fulfilling.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22) — Also Leo Ascendant) — Use care in money matters. Don't look for easy ways to make it. Move forward to settle debts or push an artistic project. Get cooperation from family members and spruce up or repair your home. Formulate a budget.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Get all the routine, ordinary chores out of the way early this week. Later on you can finalize agreements, get the ear of those in authority and present your business ideas. Don't neglect your health.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Also Libra Ascendant) — Don't be drawn into family disputes. Control your temper. Maintain an easy pace until energy returns. Later in the week you achieve success and a possible raise in salary. Push forward to improve results.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Keep a low profile at social gatherings. Go along with others. Be dependable, finish up chores you've let slide and don't speculate.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Keep a low profile at social gatherings. Go along with others. Be dependable, finish up chores you've let slide and don't speculate.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20) — Also Pisces Ascendant) — For extravagance can cause problems at home, so tighten your purse-strings. Mend any damaged relationships with co-workers. Don't scatter your energies. Finish one task before beginning another.

Circuit Breaker aids aged, disabled

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)

The Circuit Breaker, a new law that allows the "Senior Citizen and Disabled Persons Property Tax Relief Grant," offers up to $850 a year in cash to eligible senior and disabled persons in Illinois to help meet rising rent and property taxes.

Q. Does the Circuit Breaker only apply to property owners, as its name implies?

A. No. The grant applies also to renters. Both renters and property owners can receive the grant if they are 65 years of age, or disabled, and their income is under $10,000 a year.

Q. Are renters eligible for the grant if otherwise eligible?

A. No. Persons living in tax-exempt, public or church-operated homes are not eligible for the rent relief grant, but they may be eligible for the Sales Tax Grant.

Q. Must the disabled person be over 65 years of age?

A. No. Disabled persons may be eligible if they are 16 years of age or older.

Q. Does "disabled" mean that they have to be receiving Social Security, Railroad Retirement or Civil Service disability benefits?

A. No. A person will also be considered "disabled" if a doctor will certify to that effect.

Q. Can a person who owns a condominium or co-op apartment be eligible for the grant?

A. Yes, but both must be able to determine what part of the payments they make which are attributable to rent or taxes.

Q. Can two elderly persons or disabled individuals living together each file for the grant?

A. Yes, unless they are husband and wife. Only one application can be filed by a married couple.

Two unmarried seniors can each apply for the grant. Disabled children over the age of 16 are also eligible to apply separately.

Sne's clerk of the course, of course

By JOHN SCULLY

Janice Lance has a job at Fairmount Park that the casual racing fan — when he looks at the program and sees her name listed as Clerk of Course — has no idea what she does.

Jan's primary responsibility is posting the charts of the races to the horses' individual papers.

Unlike thoroughbred racing, where all the records on the horses are kept by the Daily Racing Form, harness racing records are kept on each horse's eligibility papers, which follow the horse from track to track.

A record is also sent to the USTA (United States Trotting Association), where a master record is kept.

The papers show the horse's tattoo number, markings and coloring of the horse, so that he can be properly identified.

Each time the horse races, that race must be posted to his papers, which is Jan's responsibility.

It is only natural that Jan gravitates to harness racing, as she comes from a racing family. Her father, Leonard Lance, is an owner, trainer and breeder and at one time was a driver.

Two of her brothers are also trainers and drivers, while a third, Gary, works on a pipeline in Alaska.

Greg Lance has a large public stable, and is the driver of the top three-year-olds at Fairmount Park, Noah A.

Jan's older brother, Doug, trains for the Pryce Fletcher Stable and occasionally will also do the driving.

Jan knew that the racing end of the business wasn't for her after a horse which she was driving ran off with her. Now, her only occupational hazard is writer's cramp, from filling out 90 horses' papers each night. It's no wonder that she gets writers cramp, as filling out a paper requires the date, track, type of race, distance, fractional and final times, post position, the five calls of the race, final time for that individual horse, odds, driver, the first three horses, and computing the lifetime earnings each start.

Besides this, she also handles the Breeders' Awards, Stewards' Notices and the Claims at a racing meeting.

Jan started 11 years ago as a clerk of course at a parimutuel track, Audubon Park in Henderson, Ky.

Prior to that, she worked at some of the Illinois county fairs, where she gained the necessary experience to become licensed by the USTA.

Her resume looks like a travelogue of the Midwest, as she has worked at Jacksonville and Northville, Michigan; Balmoral, DuQuoin, Springfield, Fairmount Park, Cahokia Downs and Quad-City Downs in Illinois; Louisville, Henderson and Lexington in Kentucky; and Syracuse in New York.

Recently, however, she has been on a more stable schedule, that of working at Fairmount Park and then going to East Moline to work at Quad-City Downs and being off about two months out of the year.

When Fairmount Park closes, the family goes in various directions. Doug goes to Kentucky, Greg to Balmoral near Chicago, and Jan to Quad-City Downs. Leonard usually races in Kentucky but may go to Chicago this year.

They do see each other throughout the year at their home in Ballwin, Ill., where Jan's mom takes care of the remaining horses that are left at the farm.

Harness racing is definitely a way of life for the Lances.

Construction products fair

The Southern Illinois Builders Association (SIBA) will sponsor its fourth annual Products Fair — a construction materials, services and building equipment exhibition — in conjunction with its annual meeting on Thursday, Feb. 7.

All activities will take place at the St. Clair Exhibition Hall, Route 13 and Route 150, Belleville.

Two seminars will be presented in the afternoon and the fair will be followed by a dinner meeting and program in the evening.

The first afternoon seminar, at 2, entitled "Computer Systems for Contractors," will be a presentation by Gary Close of Arthur Andersen & Co. This seminar will take a look at the rationale for using computers in various sized construction companies.

The 4 p.m. seminar will be a panel discussion focusing on a product being designated as a specified material in bid contracts and the substitution of such specified materials.

The evening banquet program will be highlighted by keynote speaker Thomas E. Dalley, vice-president of the Associated General Contractors of America. He will discuss the latest construction-related legislation in Washington, D.C. Bob Hardy of KMOX radio will be the toastmaster for the evening.

More than 60 exhibits will feature the latest developments in products, equipment and services for the construction industry. This year's exhibits feature a wide cross-section of the industry, with everything from computers to heavy equipment on display.

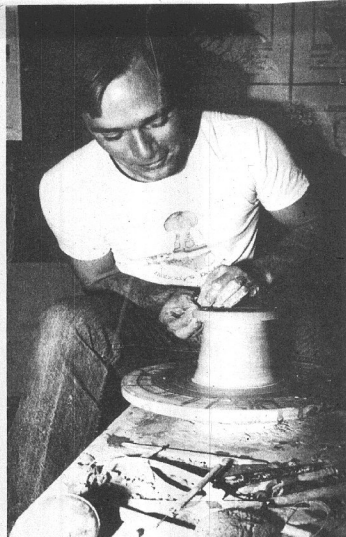

Those invited to participate in the event include construction contractors, architects, engineers and representatives of government agencies involved in the construction process.

The exhibits will open at 1 p.m., with afternoon programs at 2 and 4, a social hour at 6 and the dinner and program at 7:30.

Price of the program, including admission to the exhibits and dinner program, is $14. For further information or reservations, Quad-Cityans may contact the SIBA office at 397-1400.

ASSESSORS MEETING

Police, firemen vs. Big Red Feb. 26

The eighth annual Granite City policemen-firemen basketball game will be played at the Granite City South gymnasium on Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 8 p.m. Members of the police and fire departments (and special friends) will play the Big Red All-Stars (St. Louis football Cardinals).

Players featured in this year's Big Red lineup will include Mel Gray, Roger Wehrli, Steve Plaskiewicz, Tim Kearney, Thomas Lott and Mike Dawson.

All proceeds from the game go into the Officer Friendly Athletic Fund.

Money from the fund is used to sponsor youth basketball, soccer, hockey, football and baseball teams. The money also buys equipment and pays registration fees for underprivileged children throughout the community.

The tickets are $2 each, Fred Hoffman, police-community relations officer, said.

Donations are being sent to: OFFICER-FRIENDLY ATHLETIC FUND, Granite City Police Dept., 2330 Madison Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040.
